FOURTEEN BRITISH WAR VESSELS SUNK BY GERMANS IN NAVAL BATTLE IN NORTH SEA

BATTLESHIP POMMERN AND OTHER SHIPS OF GERMAN FLEET SUNK

British Battle Cruisers Queen Mary, Indefatigable and Invincible and the Cruisers Defence, Black Prince and Warrior, Together With Eight Torpedo Boats, Were Sent Down in Engagement Off Denmark Wednesday.

BOTH THE BRITISH AND THE GERMAN ADMIRALTIES CONCEDE THE DESTRUCTION OF A NUMBER OF VESSELS

Because of Incomplete Details the Total Losses May be Much Larger Than First Reported—Battle Commenced in the Afternoon and Lasted for Several Hours Into the Night—Probably the Greatest Naval Fight in History.

Great Britain and Germany again have met in battle at sea and Germany apparently, so far as the details have been made known, was the victor. At the bottom of the North Sea, off the west coast of Northern Denmark, lie at least three British battle cruisers, three cruisers and eight torpedo boats, and the German battleship Pommern and two small German cruisers and a number of German torpedo craft.

Great Britain admits the loss of battle cruisers and cruisers with a tonnage of 114,810—represented by the battle cruisers Queen Mary, Indefatigable and Invincible, and the cruisers Defence, Black Prince and Warrior.

German losses, in addition to the Pommern, were the Wiesbaden and Frauenlob, both the latter small cruisers, and several torpedo boats.

Additional Claim by Germans.

The Germans claim in addition to the admitted losses of Great Britain that the British battleship Warspite, of the largest type in the British navy, was sunk, that the battleship Marlborough was hit by a torpedo and that two cruisers of the Achilles type (the Warrior is of this class) and one submarine were sent to the bottom.

The British admiralty adds to the conceded losses by Germany two dreadnaughts of the Kaiser class—vessels of 24,700 tons—destroyed, the blowing up of one battle cruiser, the damaging of two other vessels of this class and the ramming and sinking of a German submarine.

PROBABLY THE GREATEST NAVAL BATTLE IN HISTORY

London, June 2.—Picking its way from its base in the Kiel canal the German high sea fleet on Wednesday afternoon emerged into the North Sea and off the coast of Jutland engaged a British fleet through the afternoon and night in what probably was the greatest naval battle in the world's history so far as tonnage engaged and tonnage destroyed was concerned.

When the battle ended Great Britain had lost the battl ecruisers Queen Mary, Indefatigable and Invincible, the cruisers Defense, Black Prince and Warrior and eight torpedo boat destroyers, while the German battleship Pommern had been sent to the bottom by a torpedo and the cruiser Weisbaden sunk by the British gun fire. In addition several German torpedo craft were missing and the small cruiser Frauenlob had last been seen badly listed and was believed to have gone to the bottom. These losses nave all been admitted by Great Britain and Germany.

Aside from Great Britain's conceded losses, Germany claims that the British battleship Warspite, sister ship of the Queen Elizabeth and one of the largest and most powerful ships afloat had been sunk, that the battleship Marlborough, a vessel of 25,000 tons, had been hit by a torpedo and a submarine had been destroyed. Great Britain also added to Germany's acknowledged losses with the claim that one dreadnaught of the German Kaiser class—vessels of 24,700 tons and carrying a complement of 1,088 men—had been destroyed by British torpedo craft, that another battleship of the same class was believed to have been sunk by gun fire, that one battle cruiser had been blown up and two others damaged and that a submarine had been sent to the bottom.

Great Britain's admitted loss in tonnage was 114,810 for the six battle cruisers and cruisers. That of Germany, excluding the tonnage of the Wiesbaden, of which vessel there is no record, was 15,712. The tonnage of the capital ships sunk by the Japanese in their fight with the Russians in the battle of Tsusushima, in May, 1910, aggregated 93,000.

That the casualties in the fighting off Jutland were heavy is indicated by the fact that of the crew of some 900 on board the Indefatigable only two men are known to have been saved. Full details of the fight, in which Zeppelins are declared to have taken part, are being gathered by the British admiralty, and pending their receipt the censor is withholding permission to correspondents to send out stories from London.

ADMIRALTY SAYS NUMBER OF DESTROYERS LOST IS EIGHT

London, June 3.—The British admiralty officially announced last night that the total number of British destroyers lost in the naval engagement was eight. The announcement adds that of three German battle cruisers, either the Derfflinger or Lutzow was blown up, and another was said to have been disabled and a third to be seriously dameged. One German light cruiser and six German torpedo boat destroyers were sunk and at least two more lights cruisers were disabled.

STORIES OF THE BATTLE ARE HELD UP BY CENSOR

London, June 2.—The official press bureau at 11 o'clock tonight issued the following statement:

"Owing to lack of information, we are unable to pass various accounts of the sea battle that are being submitted.

"By tomorrow the admiralty, no doubt, will possess fuller details and then, if the articles are submitted, they can be properly dealt with."

TEN GERMAN DESTROYERS WERE SEEN GOING NORTH

Copenhagen, via London, June 2.—The National Tidende says that last night ten German torpedo boat destroyers passed through the Little Belt from the north going very slowly. The newspaper adds that a torpedo boat, badly damaged, is lying off Lyngvig Fyr, near Ringfijobing-Fjord, western Denmark, just north of the Horn.

DANISH STEAMER WITNESSED NAVAL BATTLE IN NORTH SEA

Copenhagen, June 1, (via London, June 2).—According to the Politken, a Danish steamer arrived today (Thursday) at Friederichshaven which had witnessed a battle in the North Sea. The steamer reports that yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon 120 miles off Hanstholm, it was stopped by two British torpedo boats to have its papers examined.

At the same moment a large German fleet appeared and the British warships immediately prepared for action. The German fleet, which approached at full speed, consisted of five large modern dreadnaughts, eight cruisers and twenty torpedo boats and destroyers. Suddenly the Germans began firing and several shells splashed around the torpedo boats without, however, hitting them.

The British ships went westward, pursued by the German fleet. At 5 o'clock the cannonade was renewed and continued until 9 o'clock in the evening.

Two Zeppelins were seen going at full speed northward to the scene of the battle.

ANNOUNCEMENT IN BERLIN TALLIES WITH LONDON CLAIM

London, June 2.—Rear Admiral Hebbinghause, director of the German admiralty, in making the announcement of the sea battle to the Reichstag gave no new details of the fight other than what had been officialy announced by the admiralty, according to a telegram from Berlin forwarded by Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent.

"No complete statement of our damages or losses yet has been received," he said in conclusion. "Of course, some of our ships were heavily damaged. The main portion of our fleet returned to harbor with the men in splendid spirits. Our men, ships and guns stood the test of battle well."

GERMAN ADMIRALTY CLAIMS SINKING NINE LARGE SHIPS AND NUMEROUS DESTROYERS

Reports Destruction of Battleship Warspite, Battle Cruisers Queen Mary and Indefatigable, Two Armored Cruisers, One Small Cruiser, Together With Three New Destroyer Flagships—British Claim No Battleship Sunk.

Berlin, June 2. (By wireless).—The German admiralty announces that in a naval battle in the North Sea May 31 between the British and German fleets the British lost the large battleship Warspite, the battle cruisers Queen Mary and Indefatigable, two armored cruisers, one small cruiser, three new flagships of destroyed squadrons, a large number of torpedo boat destroyers and one submarine. Other hostile craft, including the battleship Marlborough, were badly damaged.

The German battleship Pommern was sunk by a torpedo, the small German cruiser Weisbaden was sunk by gunfire and the cruiser Frauenlob and a number of torpedo boats are missing. The fleet returned to port June 1.

The text of the German admiralty report, which is dated June 1, says:

"During an enterprise directed to the northward our high sea fleet on May 31 encountered the main part of the English fighting fleet, which was considerably superior to our forces.

"During the afternoon between Skagerak and Horn Reef a heavy engagement developed, which was successful for us, and which continued during the hole night.

"In this engagement, so far as known, up to the present, there were destroyed by us the large battleship Warspite, the battle cruisers Queen Mary and Indefatigable ,two armored cruisers, apparently of the Achilles type, one small cruiser, the new flagships of the destroyer squadrons, the Turbulent, Nestor and Alcaster, a large number of torpedo boat destroyers and one submarine.

"By observations, which was free and clear of objects, it was stated that a large number of English battleships suffered damage from our ships and the attacks of our torpedo boat flotilla during the day engagement and throughout the night.

"Among others, the large battleship Marlborough was hit by a torpedo. This was confirmed by prisoners. Several of our ships rescued parts of the crews of the sunken English ships, among them being two and the only survivors of the Indefatigable.

"On our side the small cruiser Wiesbaden, by hostile gunfire during the day engagement, and His Majesty's ship Pommern, during the night, as the result of a torpedo, were sunk.

"The fate of His Majesty's ship Frauenlob, which is missing, and some torpedo boats, which have not returned yet, is unknown.

"The high sea fleet returned today (Thursday) into our port."

BRITISH ADMIRALTY ISSUES A REPORT ON THE ENCOUNTER

London, June 2.—The British admiralty announces that in a naval battle May 31 off the Jutland coast at least one enemy battle cruiser was destroyed, one severely damaged and the enemy destroyers lost "must have been large."

The battle cruisers Queen Mary, Indefatigable and Invincible and the cruisers Defense, Warrior and Black Prince were lost. Five destroyers also were lost and six others are not accounted for. No British battleships or light cruisers were sunk. The text of the admiralty announcement follows:

"On the afternoon of Wednesday, the 31st of May, a naval engagement took place off the coast of Jutland. The British ships on which the brunt of the fighting fell were the battle cruiser fleet and some cruisers and light cruisers, supported by four fast battleships. Among these the losses were heavy. The German battle fleet, aided by low visibility, avoided a prolonged action with our main forces. As soon as they apeared on the scene the enemy returned to port ,though not before receiving severe damage from our battleships.

"The battle cruisers Queen Mary, Indefatigable and Invincible and the cruisers Defense and Black Prince were sunk. The Warrior was disabled and after being towed for some time had to be abandoned by her crew. It is also known that the destroyers Tipperary, Turbulent, Fortune, Sparrows Hawk and Ardent were lost and six others are not yet accounted for. No British battleships or light cruisers were sunk.

"The enemy's losses were serious. At least one battle cruiser was destroyed, and one was severely damaged. One battleship is reported to have been sunk by our destroyers. During the night attack two light cruisers were disabled and probably sunk. The exact number of enemy destroyers disposed of during the action cannot be ascertained with any certainty, but must have been large."

The session just closed was the largest attended meeting since the organization of the associations.

NAVAL OFFICERS EAGERLY AWAIT DETAILS OF BATTLE

Question Regarded Foremost at Washington is Whether the British or the Germans Will Claim Victory—Not Definitely Determined Which Fleet Was Compelled to Draw Off.

Washington, June 2.—Naval officers and members of the congressional naval committees were eagerly awaiting tonight details of the naval battle between the German and British fleets. Meagre reports established beyond question that it was the most important naval engagement of the war in points of ships involved and casualties, whatever its effect otherwise may be. Lacking knowledge of the object sought by the German fleet, officers here would not hazard statements as to where victory rested.

While the British suffered the loss of more ships, according to the official statements of both sides, if they parried an attempted raid and drove a considerable fleet back to base without its having come in sight of the English coast, they could claim success, it was thought. On the other hand, if the movement of the German fleet, described merely as an enterprise by the German official statement, was only an exercise cruise or an attempt to lure the enemy into a trap, apparently the victory was theirs.

The British statement says the battle cruisers, light armored cruiser and light cruisers bore the brunt of the engagement. It also indicates hazy weather. Under these conditions, it was thought possible, the German commander saw an opportunity to swoop down on the British force with battleships to out-match the battle cruisers, before a supporting force of British battleships could come to their aid. The fact that the German pre-dreadnaught Pommern was sunk during the fight shows that the Germans had battleships with them.

Probably a Running Fight.

When the four fast battleships sent out to support the lighter craft reached the scene, according to this view, the Germans decided to draw off to Wilhelmshaven and a running fight down the Danish coast ensued.

Neither official statement tells how the British battle cruisers were lost, whether by gun fire, mines or torpedoes. Nor do they state definitely which fleet was compelled to draw off.

The British statement said the Germans avoided prolonged action with the main British force, presumably meaning the supporting battleships. Officers pointed out, however, that the German statement reported that survivors of one of the sunken British battle cruisers were picked up by German ships. This was taken as an indication that the Germans were advancing at that time.

It was thought possible the British battle cruisers had been enticed into a mine field or into waters where submarines had been stationed previously.

Strength of Fleet Not Affected.

The battle has not materially affected the relative strengths of the fleets, according to the view of American officers. The German admitted losses do not represent a serious curtailment of her sea fighting force. While the British losses are much greater, they have a greater reserve strength, more ships

CARRANZA FORCES ARE CO-OPERATING

Small Detachments Being Spread Over Chihuahua State to Hunt Down the Bandits

NO AGGRESSION IS FEARED

However, Mexican Officials Stand With the First Chief in His Recent Note—Zapata Again Active in Southern Mexico.

Washington, June 2.—Despite the threatening tone of General Carranza's last note, his military forces in Chihuahua state are being disposed in general accord with the plan disclosed by General Obregon during his conference at El Paso with Generals Scott and Funston. This was shown today when General Funston sent word that the 5000 Carranza soldiers, mobilized within the last few days at Chihuahua City, had been spread over the region not controlled by General Pershing's column in a way to carry out an active pursuit of bandits.

Secretaary Baker said that General Obregon had sent a large number of men in pursuit of the bandits and all War Department advices indicated that this plan was being carried out. He added that he now knew of nothing to prevent the sending of new expeditions into Mexico after raiders, provided a hot trail was followed. Otherwise he declines to discuss statements in the Carranza note, holding that the note is a State Department matter.

Army officials said the Mexican troop dispositions as reported by General Funston appeared to be in accord with a plan to police the country and did not indicate the preparation of an unfriendly demonstration toward General Pershing's force. The Mexicans have been, for the most part, distributed in small commands to police definite sections. No large force is being held in one place and the reports added that no entrenchments or entanglements had been constructed. So far there has been nothing to show that military preparations for an attempt to drive out the Americans have been set in motion.

Advisers Backing Carranza.

On the other hand reliable information has been received in official quarters that all of Carranza's advisers stand solidly behind him in the expressions of his note. Nothing has come to indicate the temper of the people either in Mexico City or elsewhere in the country, following its publication.

News of renewed activity by Zapata followers in southern Mexico, officially reported today to the State Department, indicated General Obregon may be compelled to recall some of his forces in the north. It has been stated, but without specific authority, that 50,000 men are being concentrated in the north. Official reports have placed the number at 20,000. At any rate officers here think a large enough portion of Carranza's available forces have been moved north to weaken his control over the southern bandit areas.

EFFORTS OF GERMANS NEAR FORT VAUX FAIL

French Guns Tear Great Holes in Ranks of the Enemy

Reinforcing Battalions of Germans Forced to Retreat in Disorder —Reports of Desperate Fighting From Rome.

Again the Germans have tried, but ineffectually, to breach the French line near Fort Vaux, northeast of Verdun. In the fighting, characterized by Paris as havig been of unprecedented violence, the Germans threw attack after attack against the French line, but the French guns and machine guns tore great holes in their ranks and threw them back. In addition, reinforcing battalions were caught by the French guns as they essayed to throw themselves into the fray and were forced to retreat in disorder northeastward upon Dieppe.

At one point, however, in the sector of Damloup east of Fort Vaux the Germans captured a portion of the village, the other parts of which are occupied by the French. To the west of the Meuse around Hill 304 and LeMort Homme both sides are engaged in heavy artillery duels.

On the Russian front, the Germans head under bombardment and at sevhea dunder bombardment and at several places other points along the line are using their big guns against the Russians. An infantry attack near New Zelbour was put down by the Russians.

Rome reports desperate fighting between the Austrians and Italians between the Adige and Brenta rivers. Along the Posina and southeast of Arsiero Austrian attacks were repulsed with heavy casualties.

Bombardments predominated along the greater part of the remainder of the front.

Constantinople says the Russian center on the Caucasus region has been forced to retire twenty kilometers in the face of Turkish attacks and that the Turks repulsed a surprise attack on the Turkish left wing.

NAVAL BILL PASSED WITH FOUR NEGATIVE VOTES IN THE HOUSE

Appropriation Largest by Many Millions Ever Before Considered by Congress

TOTAL AMOUNT $269,900,000

Measure Carries Provision for Armor Plate Plant—Big Increase in Personnel

SECOND DEFENSE MEASURE

Only One More Preparedness Bill Now Before the House

Washington, June 2.—The second of the big preparedness measures, a naval appropriation bill larger by many millions than any ever before considered in Congress, passed the House late today almost unanimously. It carries a building programme for next year of five battle cruisers, four scout cruisers, ten destroyers, fifty submarines, and 130 aeroplanes, provides for a government armor plate plant, authorizes an increase of nearly 17,000 enlisted men and appropriates a total of $269,900,000.

The only important amendment written in the bill in the final day of debate was one appropriating $1,000,000 for repair work at the Norfolk navy yard. Of this amount $450,000 would be available as soon as the bill becomes law. The appropriation is additional to that already passed for equipping the yard for battleship construction.

Form Practically Unchanged.

As passed the bill is in substantially the same form as framed by the naval committee. Only a few amendments were adopted during a week of debate, and a final effort by Republican leaders to have the measure recommitted with instructions to add two battleships, two scout cruisers and ten destroyers was beaten 189 to 183. The fight for an increase in the building programme, at least by the addition of two battleships, will be renewed when he measure is taken up in the Senate late this month, and administration leaders believe it will be successful.

Only four representatives voted against passage of the bill, to 358 favoring it and as the roll call progressed an overwhelming majority of "ayes" stirred the Democrats to repeated cheering. The four negative votes were cast by Representatives Browning, New Jersey, and Graham, Pennsylvania, Republicans; Randall, California, Prohibitionist; and London, New York, Socialist.

Only One More Bill.

With passage of the bill the House completed the major portion of its share in the preparedness programme. Of the three bills carrying the important provisions of the programme—the army, naval and fortifications measures—only the last named remains to be considered. It probably will be taken up in the House after the National conventions while the Senate is debating the naval bill.

Twenty-five Democrats voted with the Republicans today for the motion to recommit and increase the building programme and there were indications tonight that the proposal to provide for at least two battleships would find strong support among Democrats in the Senate. The two dreadnaughts recommended by Secretary Daniels were stricken out of the bill by the House committee and an additional battle cruiser substituted.

Amendments Added by House.

The House added increases totalling more than $40,000,000 to the committee measure. Of this $22,000,000 covers an amendment adopted, increasing the number of submarines authorized from 20 to 50.

Other provisions added during debate, carrying $11,000,000 for a government armor plate plant, $7,000,000 for enlargement of navy yards, especially those at Boston, Philadelphia, Norfolk and Puget Sound which will be equipped to build capital warships, $2,700,000 for increasing the navy's personnel, and $1,500,000 for aeroplanes.

The armor plant provision already has passed the Senate as a separate bill.

Reorganization plans recommended by Secretary Daniels, including increasing the duties and authority of the chief of operations, are authorized in the measure, and provision is made for building up a strong reserve for the enlisted personnel.

WILL 'DARK HORSE' FINALLY BE NAMED?

FIGHT IS GROWING WARMER

Managers of Root, Weeks, Fairbanks and Sherman Committees Insist Their Candidates Will Fight to a Finish.

Chicago, June 2.—There were numerous conferences between party leaders today but so far as could be learned no agreement on candidates was reached and there was no development that indicated which candidate is likely to be nominated for President by the Republican national convention. Tonight the outcome seems as much in doubt as ever.

While on the surface the fight appears to be between Roosevelt and Hughes or Roosevelt against the field, there was a marked increase in activity at the headquarters of the various "favorite son" candidates.

Managers of the Root, Weeks, Burton, Fairbanks and Sherman committees insisted that their candidates would remain in the fight until the end. They declared after tabulating the vote claimed for Roosevelt, that the successful candidate would either be one of the "favorite sons" or a dark horse.

Try With Root First.

The plan of the old organization leaders is said to be to try and win first with Root and if they fail on this effort to give Burton, Weeks, Fairbanks, and Sherman a tryout in the convention in the order named.

In the event of failing to put over any of these, the plan is to try and win with a dark horse, according to reports in circulation. Senator Harding, of Ohio, and Governor McCall, of Massachusetts, were mentioned as dark horse possibilities.

Friends of Roosevelt claim he will win after the formality of giving the "favorite son" candidates a complimentary vote has been disposed of, while Hughes' supporters declared their candidate would be nominated early in the proceedings.

A suggestion was made today that committees be appointed by the Republicans and Progressives to decide on a candidate, which would be acceptable to both sides, but George W. Perkins, chairman of the executive committee of the Progressive party, said he had not heard of the plan.

Perkins Makes Statement.

"In our statement, issued in January,

FORMAL REQUEST FOR EIGHT HOUR DAY READ

Railroad Employes Likely to Contest Every Part of Demands

They Make it Clear That They Want An Eight Hour Day But Will Not Stand For Any Reduction in Their Wages.

New York, June 2.—Every point in the demands made by the four leading organizations of railroad employes upon virtually all the rail lines of the United States for a basic eight hour work day, will be sharply contested, it became apparent here today at the second conference between the 19 officials representing the roads and the delegates of the labor organizations. Acting as spokesman for his associates A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railroad Conductors, read into the record the formal request for an eight hour day and the supplementary demands of the men.

As each clause was read Elisha Lee, chairman of the railroad committee, and his associates asked questions designed to bring out its exact meaning. There were several sharp disputes as to present working conditions.

The employees made it clear that in their demands for an eight hour day they would not submit to any reduction in the present wage scale for nine, ten or more hours.

It also was said that the men were not anxious for over time. One of the labor delegates asserted they would be well satisfied with eight hours work in every 24.

One of the most difficult points to settle apparently will be the eight hour day as it applies to train crews. Freight traffic only is involved, with time to be based on length of run and mileage per hour.

Mr. Garretson said that under the proposed system they would get 75 cents per hour for overtime instead of 40 cents as at present. He asserted that overtime is largely a controllable factor when it becomes economic and real under the new system demanded, the day's pay would remain virtually the same and that only the conditions of obtaining it would be changed.

Rocky Mount, N. C., June 2.—After a presentation address by the league ceived by the Champs, and sent skyceived by the Champs an dsent skyward by four attractive young ladies, the Tar Heels jumped on Eldridge in the opener for five safeties, two for extra bases and counted four runs. This was a lead that Portsmouth did not equal until the eighth and in the sixth Eisel had whelped over the fence for the locals and the final score wound up 5 to 4.

A great crowd that filled the stands and over-ran to the outfield delighted in the winning of the Champs, though the Truckers fought hard and drove Southpaw Teague to the dugout in the eighth after two were out. Applegate to the relief did not allow a hit and stemmed the rally, though in the ninth there came a climax of a finish when, after Moore drew a Pass, Fox drove to the boards in center but Eisel raced between it and landed for a wonderful catch. Then Cueto was passed for obvious reasons. Gandy clouted what loked to be a safe drive over the left field fence but Berger, catching it on a dead run from him, wheeled and made a double before Moore could return to second. The first inning was Eldridge's undoing and a rapid succession of safeties coupled with Talbot's and Parmalee's two-ply count sent four across the rubber. The visitors counted first in the third when Reynolds was passed, went to second on a hit to third on an out and counted on a safe one in the eighth. Portsmouth started a swatfest counting five bangs, one for an extra base, before the southpaw was relieved.

LUMBERTON BUILDING WILL BE RECOMMENDED

Congressman Hood Announces Decision of Sub-Committee.

Will Recommend Buildings for Mt. Olive and Other Places; Sites for Dunn and Other Towns—Law Cited.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Washington, D. C., June 2.—Before leaving tonight for home, where tomorrow he will take part in the primary contest in the State and Sunday deliver an address to the Woodmen of the World, Congressman George Hood, of Goldsboro, gave out the following statement with reference to the public buildings to be allowed in the pending bill:

"The sub-committee having in charge public buildings and grounds for the State of North Carolina has not made public its report, but it is certain that they will recommend $80,000 in addition to the $60,000 already authorized for a postoffice and Federal Court building at Wilson.

"The committee will recommend buildings for Edenton, Mt. Olive, Mt. Airy, Lumberton, Lenoir and Morganton and sites for Louisburg, Sanford, Marion, Dunn, Albemarle, Williamston and Clinton; also an increase of $3,000 for purchasing sites at Wadesboro and Rockingham. Heretofore, $50,000 had been authorized for the purchase of sites at these places and it was found to be insufficient.

"Under the existing law, unless the sites have been heretofore acquired, no public building can be authorized for places where the postal receipts do not exceed $10,000 and the purchase of a site cannot be authorized unless the postal receipts exceed $6,000. Numerous bills that have been introduced by various congressmen could not be considered for the reason that the receipts did not come within the required limit." P. R. A.

of every type and the loss of the three battle cruisers, two of which were comparatively old, is not thought to have weakened the naval preponderance of the Allies in any serious degree.

Officers noted the accuracy of the German reports of damages inflicted upo nthe British fleet, comparing it with the list of ships admitted by the British to have been sunk. The British statement it was said, did not disclose the same degree of observation or knowledge of the opposing forces, although it is possible the British admiralty did not choose to give out its statement with all available detail in that respect.

May Affect Naval Bill.

Applying the first lessons of the engagement to American naval preparedness, some officers insisted that details of the fight would demonstrate the necessity of adding at least two dreadnaughts to the naval bill which passed the House by overwhelming vote, while news of the fight was coming over the wires. It carries five battle cruisers and no battleships, but officers hope the heavier craft will be added by the Senate.

Another fact which full reports of the battle were expected to bring out was the value of big dirigibles for naval use as scouts.

The American anvy has only one dirigible and naval officers hoped detailed reports of the Horn Reef fight would come in time for the effect to be shown in the pending bill.

SINCLAIR CONFIDENT OF FIRST OR SECOND PLACE

Fayetteville, N. C., June 2.—Hon. N. A. Sinclair, candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general, tonight expressed himself as confident of being returned highest or second highest candidate by the Democratic voters of the State in tomorrow's primary. "I expect to have a majority in at least two of the Eastern districts," said Mr. Sinclair, "I expect to carry the Mountain districts, and I will hold my own against the field in all the other districts. I certainly expect to stand the highest or second highest candidate," he concluded.

Mr. Sinclair closed his campaign here tonight with a speech delivered in the Cumberland county court house to an enthusiastic and responsive crowd.

THEATRICAL

Rex Beach's wonderful ten-act filmization of his greatest book, "The Ne'er Do Well," [illegible] the greatest sensation at the [illegible] yesterday of any photoplay ever presented at that theatre. While the crowds were not overflowing the afternoon, judging from those who saw it are praising it, today will bring capacity business at almost every performance.

Never before in the whole history of motion pictures has such a stupendous production, of its kind, been attempted. Never before in all her motion picture career has Kathlyn Williams acquitted herself so creditably as she has in this great production in the role of Edith Cortlandt, the seductive wife of "the other man" who, mismated in marriage, risks all when she finds her true mate, and is seized with the furious desire of the tigress for her mate—to win him by purring methods or by force.

Wheeler Oakman, the typical young athlete as the hero football player, ensnared alike by the seductive Edith Cortlande and the dazzling Southern beauty "Chiquita" played by Norma Nichols, in all that could be desired in their respective roles.

Those who enjoy the deepest drama, the blackest intrigue on the screen, the soft tropical beauty of a Southern romance and the finished acting of some of filmdom's biggest stars, should not miss "The Ne'er Do Well" on its last appearance, at the Royal Theatre today and tonight.

Comedy Day at Grand.

It's a great comedy bill at the Grand today—four solid reels of side-splitting comedy, good for what ails you—be you either young or old. The bill is headed by one of those good old-style Keystone comedy screams, "Ambrose and Walrus in Battle" two whole reels of laughs and guffaws, such as you have never before been guilty of. It's a scream, starring those two inimitable comedians, Ambrose and Walrus, both of whom are still "in the ring" making the new Triangle Keystone comedies. That Mack Sennett thought enough of them to take them into the Triangle fold with him, is evidence enough of their laugh-making proclivities, all of which will be let loose at the Grand today.

Max Linder, one of the greatest stage comedians who ever forsook the legitimate for the silent stage, appears in a great Pathe comedy scream, "Max Feet Are Pinched," one continuous howl from beginning to end, full of the most ridiculous incidents you have ever seen on the screen, with Max right in the middle of the big doing at all times.

There is also a great Vitagraph comedy scream, one of the biggest you ever saw in all of your days. Don't pass this big show by today—whatever you do!

Dorothy Davenport, the beautiful wife of that equally handsome (according to nine of every ten girls) gentleman, Wallace Reid, makes her first re-appearance in Universal pictures at the Bijou today ,starring in a great two-reel heart-throbbing dramatic masterpicture, "Her Husband's Faith" co-starring with Emory Johnson and T. D. Critenden.

"Her Husband's Faith" is one of the deepest emotional dramatic gems of the entire week. There is a happy family, parted through misunderstandings; there is a darling little daughter who finally brings them back together. There is the heartaches of the separation; there is the tremor of expectancy at different periods as you hope their differences will be settled; there is that pathos that marks the true dramatic gem all the way through the two reels, with beautiful Dorothy Davenport, more fascinating and lovable than ever in one of her strongest emotional roles.

Animated Weekly today contains "Settling the Strife in Mexico" showing General Obregon, Carranza's war secretary, conferring with General Scott and Funston, trumpeter heralding approach. General Obregon, (a one-armed man), escorting his auto, and after the peace talk. There's scenes in the giant garment workers strike in New York city, Lord Wimbourne, Ireland's viceroy, arriving at the Castle, besieged in revolution; there's a scene showing several thousand French soldiers recently captured, on way to prison—and there's many other big scenes.

HOPEWELL POLICEMAN FROM NEWBERN SERIOUSLY HURT

In Mysterious Midnight Automobile Accident in Richmond.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Richmond, Va., June 2.—J. H. Roscher, a Hopewell policeman from Newbern, N. C., was seriously hurt about the head in an automobile accident early this morning at Sixth and Grace streets. One explanation is that Roscher was crossing the street when he was struck. Another is that he was riding on the running board and fell off as the car rounded the corner. Roscher was found unconscious in a nearby yard. So far, he has been unable to give a rational account of the affair. While not fatally hurt the doctors say he will have to stay at Virginia hospital for a week if not longer. D. T. Talman, driver of the car, was charged with being drunk and with reckless and careless driving. He also seems to have only a vague idea as to how the accident happened. His case was continued in court today.

Republican Information—Democratic Campaign.

Mr. Little claims there were 67 roll calls in the Sixty-third Congress, and that Mr. Godwin was absent during 30 of them. He cites "Collier's Weekly," which is strictly a Republican sheet, as authority. Champ Clark—grand old Democrat, and Speaker of the House of Representatives—says the official record shows 457. Something wrong somewhere. Mr. Godwin will appreciate your support.

Fayetteville, June 2.—Among the nine "star" men, the honor graduates of the United States Naval Academy, who will graduate at Annapolis today is Osborne Bennett Hardison, son of Mrs. B. T. McBryde, of this city.

To be a "star" man gives a graduate of the Naval Academy the preference of appointments and is perhaps highest honor that can come to a midshipman. Hardison was appointed to the academy from Wadesboro by Congressman Page. He has won many honors at the naval training schools. As enumerated by the annual of the Naval Academy, they are, two stripes (midshipman junior lieutenant), gymnasium team, winner of letters on gymnasium team, academy champion on the horizontal bar, "by far the best man the navy has ever had on this apparatus;" crew squad, second class year; baseball numerals; member of several class committees; and member of the staff of "The Lucky Bag," the midshipmen's annual.

(Special Star Telegram).

Washington, D. C., June 2.—George W. Cameron, age 43, of Wilmington, is in the Washington Asylum hospital tonight suffering from blood poisoning. Cameron was found on the streets of Washington by the police in a dazed condition. At first it was thought he was suffering from an over ipdulgence in alcohol, but when examined at the police station it was found that he had blood poisoning. F. R. A.

It was learned here last night that Mr. Cameron, who is a well known printer of this city and who has recently been publishing the Saturday Record, a weekly paper, left a few days ago ostensibly for Norfolk, Va. Nothing had been heard from him since that time, but it was expected that he would return shortly. The first news of his illness in the Washington hospital received here was in the above dispatch to The Star. His many friends in this city will hope that his illness is not serious.

TOP O' THE MORNING.

The gateway of the kingdom
It bendeth very low,
Within the reach of every place
Where common people go.

It has no rusty hinges,
No marble steps are piled,
The gateway of the kingdom
Is the spirit of a child.

Some of them want Hughes to break his silence because it is about to break them.

The ancients used to stone the prophets, but at this time everybody loves the profits.

A soothsayer who is out of a job might get one in Chicago during the next week.

Be careful how you turn around. First thing you know you will step on the Fourth of July.

The G. O. P. does not know where it is going but it is on the way to Chicago to find out something about it.

When a man is between the devil and the deep blue sea, he does not need advice. He can be entertained with help.

The main reason why men go into politics is because politicians are the only men who can get elected to office.

The Republican party wants to be saved from some of its friends who abuse it when it suits them and seek to use it when it is to their selfish interest to do so.

Go to the polls today and vote for all four of those propositions which mean progress for Wilmington. Also vote for your choice of the candidates who are running for officce from Governor to constable.

Professor Taft says he would support any Republican nominated at Chicago, but as the professor was once a judge he proposes to be his own judge as to who is a Republican. It is not likely that a Progressive will look like a Republican to him.

A young man whose father urged him to have an object in life soon afterwards tried to get the old man to let him have $150 so he could slip a diamond ring on the finger of the only object in life that he cared about having at the present time.

A Wilmington man who is having pipe dreams about getting rich from an invention on which he is working, is getting on the nerves of his wife. She told him a few days ago that about all the reputation he would ever get as an inventor would be from his aptitude at inventing excuses.

Former Senator John L. McLaurin and former Governor John Gary Evans are engaging in a few South Carolina campaign amenities. Evans referred a few days ago to McLaurin as "a discredited politician" and used other language that the ex-senator considers as objurgatory and detractatory. Senator Mac says Evans is about what he called him once before, "an apist and an imitator" and a "squeedunk trying to imitate the blast of a trumpet."

Colonel Roosevelt won't go to Chicago during the sessions of the Progressive and Republican conventions, but will remain at Oyster Bay and refrain from getting excited. He has paid $9,000 to have a personal telephone line strung from Chicago to his private office at home and can call up either convention if either should have any doubt as to whether he would accept the nomination. He did not care to be an innocent by-stander at Chicago, but in order to show that he is not disinterested, he paid $9,000 so he can listen and talk enough to get the worth of his money. Probably he stayed away from Chicago because it would look too much like attending his own political funeral.

FREEDOM OF THE SEAS.

Recently The Star called attention to the fact that the Democratic slogan of a hundred years ago, "Free Trade and Sailors' Rights," was America's original declaration for "Freedom of the Seas," to become famous as one of the principles for which President Wilson has contended in all his correspondence with Germany and Great Britain. The seas ought to be free to all the world but they are not, for the sea rights of even such a great nation as the United States have been brutally, ruthlessly and contemptuously set at naught by two of Europe's great nations.

The world powers have taken it upon themselves to seize all the land they can get hold of on every continent of the earth, and, of course, one or more of them will also assert and maintain dominancy over all the high seas unless other nations are prepared to assert their equal rights to a showing on the ocean for the safety of life and commerce. President Wilson is endeavoring by diplomacy to commit the world powers to freedom of the seas. The New York World corrects some very erroneous ideas about it, held in this country and particularly in England where all but absolutely sea supremacy is claimed. Says the World:

"Surprising ignorance of American history is exhibited in this country as well as in England in public discussion of the President's recent reference to Freedom of the Seas. Freedom of the Seas is not, as Lord Cromer says, 'a mere euphemism invented in Berlin for the destruction of the naval supremacy of Great Britain.' Freedom of the Seas does not mean, as our neighbor The Tribune remarks, that 'blockades are to be abolished' and 'all warfare on the seas is to be put under the ban.'

"Freedom of the Seae stands today exactly as it always has stood in our maritime policy—for neutral rights of trade outside of blockaded ports, for immunity of private property on water no less than on land, and for the sanctity of human life peaceably employed on the ocean highways. Violation of a true blockade is expressly recognized as depriving the offender and his goods of such protection except as to life and liberty.

"The doctrine is at the very foundation of all international law. In ancient times, nations possessing sea power assumed to close whole oceans against their commercial rivals. Spain and Portugal once denied Great Britain the use of the Pacific and Indian Oceans. For years Great Britain compelled all foreign ships entering its waters to strike their flags. Until a comparatively recent date, Denmark asserted a lordship over the Baltic.

"It was a denial of the Freedom of the Seas that led to our war with Great Britain in 1812. Both England and France at that time adopted the principle that 'he who is not for us is against us,' and as neutrals we were excluded from every sea. By their orders in council and their decrees, American commerce was destroyed. Our battle-cry then was 'Free trade and sailors' rights!'—not the free trade of the political economists but the free trade of the free seas, war or no war."

We quote from the World a view that ought to be stored up as valuable information on one of the biggest subjects for future international consideration. If neutral countries submit to the outrages committed by Germany and Great Britain during the past two years, the world will retrograde so far as comity between nations is concerned. It is bad enough to be land grabbers, but when it comes to grabbing the seas, that is beyond the limit. Progress has been made towards recognizing the freedom and safety of the seas, and as to that this historic reference to the matter is made by the World:

"Little by little, Freedom of the Seas has been accepted, in theory at least, by the whole world. Sixty years ago we advocated it at the Conference at Paris, at which privateering was abolished and the law of blockading laid down, but we failed to secure agreement as to the immunity of private property at sea. There is no such immunity now except in such treaties as that between the United States and Italy, and that is why the President insists that it must be made general as one of the results of the peace that is to follow the present war.

"For nearly three centuries international law has been slowly rearing defenses for neutrals and non-combatants in time of war, but its most significant triumphs have had a bearing on land operations only. Sea power now, as from the beginning, is inclined to draw its inspiration and morality from corsairs and pirates rather than lawgivers and philosophers. It is only seventeen years ago that we abolished prize-money for our navy.

"The President indulges in no idle dream when he commends a great ideal to the nations engaged in the most devastating of all wars. They have wrecked the law of nations on land, and but for his efforts nothing would have remained of it on the sea. When he assumes that it must be revived and extended by the consent of all concerned, he opposes nobody's sea power and nobody's land power properly employed. His vision is of a world restored to reason and a civilization strengthened and purified, evidence of which must be found in a recognized Freedom of the Seas."

THIS STRANGE OLD EARTH.

The city of New Bern is having an artesian well bored at the waterworks in order to get a supply of pure water. So far, however, the well borer has penetrated geology and seems to be keeping a close watch on the specimens struck at various depths in the earth. Thursday's New Bern Sun-Journal gives these particulars about the boring:

"Just what minerals lie hidden away down in the bowels of the earth beneath this city is a matter of speculation. There may be an 'acle of diamonds,' a gold mine, a silver mine or possibly some other great store of treasure and the fact that several minerals have recently been brought to light from a depth of hundreds of feet by 'Dynamite' Wilkins, who is deepening one of the wells out at the city waterworks plant, has set local citizens to guessing. Away down past the eight hundred feet mark, Mr. Wilkins struck a vein of pure mica. Following this he found a deposit of charcoal and next came an over flow of water that was as salty as the briny ocean. Only a few days ago Mr. Wilkins ran into a vein of some mineral which greatly resembled a pretty high grade of potash. For a time there was no doubt about the fact that this substance was really potash but an examination proved that this was not the case. It is the general belief of those who are familiar with the conditions hereabouts, that somewhere under the city oil can be found and Mr. Wilkins is expecting at any time to strike this oil."

Keeping a watch on the borings of artesian wells anywhere in the State is a good idea. It was be a good idea if the State would secure all such borings and have them analyzed or tested. Evidently the drill in the Newbern well is still in the tertiary formation and is a long ways from the old floor of the ocean. Down here in tidal North Carolina we are living on top of the silt which covers the old floor of the ocean, now from 1,000 to 3,000 feet or more below us.

Recently in an artesian well at Charleston the drill brought up a lot of oyster shells from a depth of 3,000 feet. This shows that the ocean once covered the spot where Charleston stands and that the water was at least 3,000 feet deep. The marl beds a hundred miles back from the coast around Wilmington show that the ocean once swept far beyond its present confines. Ocean bottom formations are to be plainly observed in Bladen county and geologists believed that the ocean once covered that part of central North Carolina known as the Sand Hills.

We hope New Bern will strikie oil, but it will be far below the 800 foot level now reached by the drill—possibly 2,000 or 3,000 feet below the bottom of the present well. The deepest bored well in America is near Bradford, Pa. It is now 7,350 feet deep and neither oil nor natural gas has been struck. Bradford capitalists would be glad to strike a flow of either, for they have spent $50,000 on the boring up to a few weeks ago. They are still drilling and propose to go as deep as human ingenuity and money will enable them to make a hole in the earth.

NEED OF THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY

Not only North Carolina but the whole of the United States is badly in need of the livestock industry. The meat problem is getting to be a very serious one in this country, and along with the beef and pork shortage comes a hide and leather shortage which seriously interferes with several great American industries.

The Smithfield (N. C.) Herald mentions the fact that Mr. M. B. Parrish, of Clayton, is traveling through North Carolina to buy for the Virginia Hide & Fur Company. At Charlotte he bought 352 medium and large sized cattle hides, 527 calf skins and nine barrels of tallow from a wholesale butcher. Here we have a man traveling around at great expense to buy hides, when a packing house would be a clearing house for practically all the hides in the country.

The Smithfield paper also calls attention to the scarcity of beef cattle and says the demand is so great that more milk cows than ever before are being sold by the farmers of Johnston county. The prices are so good for them that the farmers are letting them go, as they consider them worth more for beef than for milk cows. The Herald explains it by saying, "Beef is scarce and high, and hides are still higher, and this enables the market men to bid up on beef cattle."

The fact is, Johnston county can have no dairying industry unless she can have a creamery market for her milk. Then her farmers won't have to part with their cows for beef. Creameries will encourage cattle raising, but if we eat up all our cows we will eat up all our dairying industry.

OIL PROSPECTS IN GEORGIA.

Recently the Manufacturers' Record has referred to the prospects for oil in Florida and now comes the report from Douglas, Ga., that an experienced Texas oil man who has been prospecting in Jeff Davis county, Georgia, reports that the indications for oil are good near Denton. It is said that a Northern corporation is planning to spend $50,000 in an effort to strike oil in that region. Mr. Paul F. Barringer, of Richmond, Va., writes the Record that nine years ago his father located oil near Denton and at that time interested drillers who found oil. Differences arose and the work was stopped, but now that there is more oil talk in Georgia Mr. Barringer is endeavoring to interest capital in property upon which leases have been secured.

WILMINGTON-FAYETTEVILLE HIGHWAY.

To the Editor of The Star:

I ask space in your paper to correct a seeming error in my article on the establishment of the Wilmington-Fayetteville Highway. One statement, drawn from reports that the engineer had been taken over two proposed routes, other than the stage route, seems to have been incorrect. It is understood that the old stage route is still under consideration and will be taken up at an early date. However, I wish to say in this connection that when this route it surveyed it will likely be found to possess many advantages in road building that few sections if any possess. This route, being the most direct one, will claim the travel, even though the official highway should be carried another route, and will ultimately become the route on account of its location, as I haye been advised by those who travel for a business that this old route stands better and keeps up better under bad weather conditions than any road in the country. This is probably due to the fact that this road has been in use for such a long time, till the road bed has become hard packed and therefore has the advantage in this respect over any other road in this section. This being the case, it is well worth considering.

Hoping these suggestions will meet will favorable consideration, I remain,

Very sincerely,
J. B. SCOTT.

CURRENT COMMENT

Raleigh is having the great pleasure this week of having as a visitor Mrs. Wiliam Jennings Bryan, who is here a guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Richard L. Hargreaves, whose husband has recently come to this territory as a National bank examiner. The people of Raleigh are glad that it is so that a daughter of William Jennings Bryan is making this city her home, and that his wife comes to this city as a visitor to one of her own blood. This city has a deep admiration for Mr. Bryan. Its people have heard him in many addresses and they recognize his great ability, seeing in him a man who has zealously sought to be of service to the people. Because of herself, because of the esteem in which her distinguished husband is held, the people of Raleigh give welcome of the heartiest kind to Mrs. Bryan, and hope that good fortune will often bring her this way.—Raleigh News and Observer.

You might as well try to dam the Nile with a bull-rushes as try to stop the tide that is rising in favor of Roosevelt," says Zeb Vance Walser, of Lexington, manager of the colonel's campaign in this State. And then Mr. Walser proceeds to back the boast with some figures that are interesting. He says he has absolutely authentic information to the effect that fifteen out o fthe twenty-one edlegates from North Carolina to the Republican National convention in Chicago will vote for Roosevelt on the first ballot. If this is true, then the Colonel is going to draw surprising strength from an unexpected source. Those who watched the Republican convention in Raleigh last spring did not believe the Roosevelt forces had a look-in. Very little attention was paid to Hon. Charles H. Cowles, Roosevelt's big man in that convention, and Mr. Walser was not even present. In spite of this, however, if Mr. Walter now knows what he is talking about, one more than two-thirds of the delegates elected by the Raleigh convention are Roosevelt men. —Winston-Salem Journal.

The Observer carried on Wednesday an interesting article from the Raleigh News and Observer, telling of the wonderful work of development of the Overhills property fourteen miles from Fayetteville. This property, consisting of thousands of acres of land, is owned by millionaires, among them being B. N. Dukes of Durham and New York; George W. Watts, of Durham; Walter H. Marshall, manager of the Vanderbilt Hotel of New York; James F. Jordan, of Greensboro, and Congressman Kent, of California. The company will erect a fine resort hotel at a cost of $250,000 and will develop and improve, in connection with this palatial building, $35,000 acres of land. This gigantic scheme of development, entailing altogether the expenditure of probably a million dollars, means much for Fayetteville and Cumberland and Harnett counties, for in addition to the great sum expended in carrying out the project, thousands of dollars will be spent annually by the property owners, and wealthy persons stopping at the resort hotel. What Cumberland county needs to do now is to see that a fine roadway is constructed between Fayetteville and Overhills. The road from here to Manchester is good, but Mr. T. G. McAllister, county superintendent of roads, says that it should be rebuilt. After this highway is reconstructed, it should be well maintained the year round, in order to attract to Fayetteville the hundreds of wealthy visitors at the Overhills hotel. Mr. McAllister says that the work should be taken up promptly and that a road can be built between Fayetteville and Overhils which will require only 30 minutes travel. That means that Overhills would practically be a suburb of Fayetteville, considering the short time required to go from one place to another; and for this city to have such asuburb as Overhills would mean big things for both places—Fayetteville Observer

Wallace C. Riddick, the new president of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, is an example of a man faithful for a lifetime to his State who has been honored in the manner he would have chosen almost from the beginning of his career. His election means more than a selection, happy both for the man and the institution he has watched and lived with while it grew into greatness. It is another striking evidence that high place is open to those who live and work at home. That the State is no longer open to the reproach of being blind to its own sons. That there is a breaking away from the lure that attaches to the thing and the man in the distance. That we are no longer guilty of a perspective pitched over the head in the foreground purely for the sake of looking abroad. It means a stronger grip of State pride on men who are the State's product; and it means greater incentive to work well and to stick fast. Some day it will mean that in selecting men for high positions North Carolina will not ask them to make a sacrifice on the assumption of a poverty from which she does not suffer. That full measure of justice must, we fear, still wait on the future. But the selection of President Riddick is proof added to that of other notable examples that we are soon not only to develop our own men, but to hold them. The new president of the A. & M. College is a native of North Carolina and of Wake county, where he was born, the son of a soldier father, in the last year of the War Between the States. He was three years a student at Wake Forest College, taking his fourth collegiate year and his A. B. degree at the University of North Carolina. After two years' experience as a teacher in the western part of the State he went to Lehigh University, where he took a degree in the science of civil engineering, and, after a two years' practice of his profession, came to the Agricultural and Mechanical College in its infancy in 1892 as professor of Civil Engineering. There he has stayed and worked, while the college grew, himself growing into a part of the college. Recognized nationally by membership in and honors from many societies of his profession, he has been satisfied to stay and work toward the ambition he has now attained.—Raleigh Times.

Warsaw, N. C., June 2.—The first huckle-berries were sold in town last Saturday, retailing on the local market for fifteen cents. Messrs. L. P. Best & Co., made a shipment, but have not heard what the price on the Northern market was. The first berries are never as fine as the later crop, and hence do not sell as well when shipped. It is feared that there will not be as full crop as usual, owing to cold weather in the early spring.

HEALTH IS WEALTH
by John B. Huber, A.M., M.D.

First among our greatest blessings for which all men would pray, is health of body and mind.—ISOCRATES.

Squint

IN adults squint may be the result of exposure to cold, to taking in certain poisons, and to such diseases as syphilis, rheumatism, diabetes, diphtheria, meningitis, brain diseases and tumors in the orbital cavity, in which the eye normally finds place, the eye-socket. Adults suffering thus are likely to see double, to have their images confused, or to get dizzy.

"Cross-eye" in children should receive only the most skillful treatment, and that by the eye specialist. Indeed, it is a wise rule to have every child examined by such a man before entering it on school life. Squint in children that is due to paralysis of one or more of the six eye muscles is rectified either by wearing suitable prism glasses, or by operation, by which the muscles are either shortened or advanced.

Supposing the squint is rectified, we have to consider next the poor eyesight, which may be due either to far-sightedness or near-sightedness; and then along with one or the other of these errors of refraction there may be astigmatism. We are assuming, of course, that there are no opacities—white spots—that result from ulceration of the cornea (the part of the eye right in front of the pupil); such white spots come after diphtheria or scarlet fever or measles. Many children do "grow out of squint;" but not all. And every such child should be attended to as young as possible, so that it may not lose its precious faculty of "double vision," which most people who see rightly possess. Many a very young child squints when it is ill; irritation may make it squint temporarily and then there are children that grow up with a squint and lose it in their teens, to reappear only when they are tired and in the evening. A squint may be a warning of the existence of a weak brain control; and a hint to be watchful against over study. Medicines are of no use; electricity should not be tried except by expert direction; gentle massage over the closed lids five minutes every night, the mother or other operator standing behind the seated child, is a splendid eye tonic for weak eyes.

ECZEMA INTERTRIGO.

Answer to R. C. C.: The above is the medical name for your trouble. No doubt by now you have seen my recent articles on eczema and what to do for it. Don't use hot water in the treatment. You ask if I recommend a specialist. Yes; although any good general practitioner should be well able to treat you successfully.

INFECTED GALL SAC.

W. P. M. writes: 1. What diet should I follow in treating an infected gall sac? 2. Also what other treatments are beneficial? 3. Would electric treatments be of benefit? 4. Should the electrode be applied to the spine at the connection of the nerve leading to the gall sac, or directly over the gall sac?

Answer: 1. A bland, mixed diet; no alcoholics; a minimum of fat; a small amount of animal food; plenty of fresh fruits, vegetables, milk, cereals; small amount of sweets; cut out spices and condiments. 2. Alkaline mineral waters; podophyllin (1-6 grain at night,) or Epsom salts—a teaspoonful in a tumblerful water piping hot on rising in the morning. Tablespoonful of olive oil three times a day. 3. No. Apply the positive pole at the base of the neck; the negative pole (which has the sting to it) over the region of the gall-bladder. You'd better see a surgeon.

TOAST.

Answer to P. R. N.: When bread is toasted some of the starch changes to dextrin, which is more soluble and also more digestible than starch. Toasting causes the bread to yield more readily to the action of the digestive ferments and at the same time tends to sterilize the bread. The best results are obtained from the bread toasted throughout, so that it is crisp. Rusk and zwieback are that kind of toast; both are valuable food, especially for dyspeptics.

WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH SEASON OPENS TODAY

Dance At Lumina To Start Gayeties of Resort

Crowds of Recreation Seekers Expected to Spend Afternoon and Evening at Resort—Don Richardson Here.

Everything is in readiness for the opening today of what is believed will be the most successful season in the history of Wrightsville Beach. Bathing, boating and fishing—that's the programme at Wilmington's popular seaside resort today for the hundreds of local residents, and visitors from surrounding towns, who have been patiently awaiting the opening of the season.

Some not quite so patient put the Beach on the bathing, boating and fishing map several days in advance of the formal opening. And this is regarded as a good indication that the recreation seekers are going to take advantage of the seasonable weather forecasted for today to start the official season with a rush. The various hotels and boat houses are ready to accomodate bathers, canoeists and others. Many improvements have been made, and they are in a position to take care of large numbers today and every day now during the resort season.

The Tidewater Power Company has arranged to inaugurate today its regular summer schedule of cars every half-hour on its Wrightsville Beach system to accommodate the crowds that are expected to take advantage of the delightfully cool and refreshing breezes which distribute ozone for all who have lungs to breathe and the inclination to visit the Beach.

Don Richardson and his eleven-piece orchestra, which arrived here last night from New York City ,will hold its first rehearsal this morning and open the season tonight with the first dance of the season at Lumina.

There will be two concerts by Richardson's orchestra tomorrow, one at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and one at 8:30 o'clock in the evening. These concerts will be regular features at the resort each Sunday thereafter during the entire season.

The Seashore Hotel, with Capt. E. L. Hinton as "mine host" had a most successful opening Thursday. Captain Hinton is very optimistic over the prospects of the season and says that he believes twice as many people will come to Wrightsville Beach as were there last year.

The Oceanic, under the managership of Mr. Charles E. Hooper, will have its formal opening on June 10, and the number of applications which have been received for reservations indicate that a big season is ahead for this popular resort hotel, the new owners of which are allied with the Tidewater Power Company.

Work on the big auditorium on Harbor Island which the Tidewater Company is erecting is being rapidly pushed and it is expected to have this splendid building completed in time for the Good Roads convention which meets this year at the Beach June 21 to 23. A force of 100 men are now employed on the construction work.

Many new cottages have been built, while old ones have been given a new coat of paint and otherwise made spick and span for their occupancy as summer homes.

The Beach's water supply will be secured from a depth of 365 feet. The waterworks plant has been put in the best possible condition. The sewerage system has also been overhauled and put in good condition. Other improvements include the laying of more than 1,500 feet of new board walk.

CAMP AT LAKE WACCAMAW

Ten Wilmington Boys Leave for a Week's Recreation.

Ten happy boys left Thursday afternoon for Camp Penton at Lake Waccamaw, where they will spend a week living outdoors. Mr. Odis B. Hinnant, city boys' work secretary, who will be in charge of the camp, which will be conducted under the auspices of the boys' department of the Wilmington Young Men's Christian Association, and Mr. William Ek left earlier in the week to make arrangements for the opening of the camp.

The camp, located at Lake Waccamaw, 36 miles west of Wilmington, is one of the most ideal camping spots in this section of the State. The scenery is unsurpassed, the lay of the land insures perfect sanitation, while an artesian well furnishes pure sulphur water. The large lake furnishes splendid opportunities for swimming, boating and fishing while the virgin forests provide places for interesting hikes.

The first week the H. N. S. boys of Calvary Baptist church will be at the camp while next week the Boy Scouts will have charge. On June 15 the association campers will leave Wilmington, returning from camp on the morning of June 30.

FUNERAL OF MR. DONLAN

Services to Be Conducted From St. Mary's Pro-Cathedral This Morning.

The funeral of Mr. Timothy Donlan, whose death occurred Thursday at noon at his home, No. 120 North Third street, will be held from St. Mary's Pro-Cathedral this morning at 10 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Rev. Father C. Dennen. The interment will be in Oakdale cemetery. The Cape Fear Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy will attend the services, this being at the request of the family. Mr. Donlan was always very kind and obliging in rendering assistance to the Daughters in the memorial exercises at Oakdale cemetery.

ELECTION RETURNS TONIGHT

Returns from the county, State and Congressional primaries today will be shown in front of The Star office tonight ,a powerful projecting stereopticon lantern being used to throw the bulletins on a screen across the street. The Star's live staff of correspondents will be on the job and the very best service possible will be given but as the polls do not close until after 7 o'clock and the ballots will then have to be counted, it will be late in the night before anything of a definite nature can be ascertained. However, the earliest and latest information to be had will be given on the screen and the public is cordially invited to get the returns in front of The Star building.

BATTLE OF BALLOTS BEGINS AT SUNRISE

Primary For State, Cangressional And County Offices

Registrars and Judges Will Be at Polls Early and Remain Until Sunset —Voting Expected to Be Very Heavy.

According to official Washington time, the sun rises this morning at 5:01 o'clock and it is at this time that the polls for the primary for State, congressional and county offices will be opened in Wilmington and New Hanover. The weather man has been kind and has promised that it will be fair, which means that an unusually heavy vote will be cast. The polls will be kept open until sundown, which will be at 7:19 o'clock. Owing to the several tickets to be voted, it is expected that it will be quite late before the returns from all the precincts are known in New Hanover county.

In addition to the State, Congressional and county offices to be voted on today, in Wilmington there will be also the election on the several propositions recently ordered by City Council to be voted on by people. There are four different propositions to be voted on in this election. The registrars and judges for this election are the same as for the primary.

While this is the first State-wide legalized primary to be held in North Carolina, New Hanover has had a legalized primary for several years. However, this is the first time that State or congressional offices have been voted on in this county under a legalized primary.

The registrars and some of the judges met with the Board of Elections for New Hanover county yesterday at noon in the Court House to receive the ballots to be voted in the primary today and to be given final instructions. Mr. C. W. Woodward, chairman of the county board and ex-officio member of the city board, presided at the meeting and Mr. E. Piner acted as secretary. Messrs. Woodward, Piner and William Struthers constitute the county board of elections while Messrs. John Haar, William E. Lawson, J. J. Loughlin and Major W. N .Harriss, members of the city Board of Elections, were also in attendance.

The Registrars were instructed that in the event any of the regularly appointed judges for the different precincts failed to show up this morning, to appoint others in their places.

The Board ruled that when a voter voted for two men running for the same office that it did not invalidate the entire ballot but only such parts of it as should be marked irregularly. When it is not indicated on the registration books, the judges are required to ascertain whether or not the voter has paid his poll tax for 1915 before May 1 of this year, this applying only to the primary and not to the city election. They may require the voter to swear to his statement, if considered wise. Should a voter cast his ballot illegally, he would be guilty of a felony and subject to a heavy fine or imprisonment.

The polling places, registrars and judges for the different precincts follow:

Cape Fear Precinct—Polling Place, Johnson, store; registrar, J. H. Johnson; judges, W. O. Rhodes, Jr., J. H. Winders.

BABY HOSPITAL DONATIONS

Nineteen Babies Are Now Being Treated at Institution—Many Helping.

The splendid work of the Baby Hospital in caring for sick infants during the warm summer months has appealed to the hearts of Wilmington people and many have made donations. There are now 19 babies being treated, and it will be of interest to know that they are getting along nicely. It is expected that this institution will be the means of saving the lives of many infants this summer. This is the second season that the hospital has been operated in Wilmington.

Miss Lucile Murchison has donated $10 while Mrs. S. E. Elks has given a crib and mattress as a memorial to her little daughter, Annie Virginia Elks. Mrs. H. E. Bonitz has given a baby carriage. These donations have been greatly appreciated by the committee in charge and they will be glad to have others join in this splendid work.

CITY IMPROVEMENTS TO BE VOTED ON TODAY

Rotary Club Urges Adoption For "Good of Wilmington"

Factory Site Proposition Emphasized as of Most Importance—Extension of Waterworks and Fire Apparatus Proposed.

For the good of Wilmington is the slogan of the Rotary Club and it is for this season that this organization is standing squarely behind the four propositions to be voted on by the voters of the city at the polls today. These four measures are separate and distinct, and each of them stands on its own merits. While the adoption of all four propositions would mean an increase of taxes of not more than ten cents on the hundred dollars' valuation of property, it is believed that the value received would be many times more than the amount paid out for securing them.

For the purpose of calling the attention of the citizens to the great importance, especially of the factory sites proposition for building up an industrial suburb, northeast of the city, the Rotary Club members had a parade of automobiles through the city, headed by a brass band on a large motor truck, last night. Stops were made at several points and short speeches made by President Roger Moore, of the Rotary Club, and Mr. George P. Galvin, an enthusiastic live wire booster for Wilmington. In spite of the fact that the meetings had been advertised to be held but a few hours before, the speakers were greeted by large audiences at each point. Messrs. Galvin and Moore made stirring appeals in behalf of a bigger and better city.

To reject the factory sites proposition, which contemplates the building up of a manufacturing community in Wilmington, would mean to go backward and the people of this progressive city cannot afford not to go forward, said the speakers in their addresses. They appealed to the sovereign voters to stand by the city and help it to grow and develop. In the factory sites proposition, it was explained, no money can be spent without getting not only value received but getting it back multiplied. While under the underwriting provision, the city might eventually be called on to pay as much as $40,000 eventually, it could not pay out any money unless sites were given away in accordance with the provisions specified, which require a factory to occupy a site five years before acquiring a title. It is not simply a proposition to give away a factory site, said Mr. Galvin, but it is a proposition that contemplates giving a site to worthy enterprises, who come with the intention of staying. Unless factories are established, the sites could not be given away and if they do come, they will bring business. By underwriting it was explained that the city simply guarantees to be responsible for a certain part of the expense.

Mr. Galvin emphasized the fact that the tract of 500 acres of land which it is proposed to develop jointly between the city, the county, the business men of the city and the Tidewater Power Company, lies outside the city limits and will not be subject to taxation by the municipality. The city would stand responsible for $40,000 but not more than ten per cent. of it can be levied after the first year and only 15 per cent. the first year. If no factory sites were given away the city would not be called on to contribute a cent. The original cost of the land was $70,000 and it is proposed to use the remainder of the $160,000 in developing the land and making it desirable for manufacturing enterprises. By giving away 250 acres to be developed it was explained that the value of that left would be much enhanced.

The point was also emphasized by the speakers that none of the propositions call for a bond issue nor do they contemplate the slight increase of taxes for more than five years. The need of paving Princess street was pointed out while the necessity of extending the waterworks system to the outlying regions of the city and the need of better fire equipment is apparent.

Addresses were made at Delgado store, at Fourth and Brunswick, at Fifth and Castle and at Front and Princess. The audiences were very attentive and gave earnest heed to the speakers.

The factory sites proposition has been endorsed by the Board of County Commissioners, by City Council, by the Chamber of Commerce by the Rotary Club and by representative Business men as a sound proposition and it is believed that it affords a solution for bringing manufacturing enterprises, a need that has long been apparent.

—Among the arrivals at the Hotel Wilmington yesterday were: M. S. Porter, Charlotte; A. D. Teachey, Wallace; E. M. Nance, Fair Bluff; Messrs. L. W. Boney, N. H. Carter and O. T. Teachey, Wallace, and Miss Theo McPherson, Burlington.

ENJOYABLE VOICE RECITAL AT BOYS BRIGADE ARMORY

The voice recital given by the more advanced pupils of Miss Carrie Bowen at the Boys' Brigade armory last evening was a most enjoyable event for the large audience in attendance. The programme was rendered in a highly artistic manner and those taking part showed themselves to be singers of splendid ability.

Mr. E. H. Munson in introducing those who took part on the programme declared that this was the first event of its kind he had known in Wilmington and took occasion to compliment Miss Bowen very highly for the splendid work done since starting classes for training in voice several years ago. There have been many piano recitals, said he, but not in recent years had there been a voice recital given by those receiving their training under local instruction.

The audience was very appreciative of the different numbers and those taking part were greeted with ovations. Those on the programme included Misses Ruby Duncan, Ruth Bowen, Julia Post, Eunice Tucker, Ida Amelia Fleet and Messrs. Albert and Wilbur Dosher. Miss Katie Foard rendered the accompaniments for the different numbers.

MISS ALICE V. BUTLER IS BRIDE OF MR. W. C. CRUSER

Of interest to many friends in Wilmington, where Mr. W. C. Cruser has lived for the past year the representative of a large brokerage firm of Norfolk, Va., will be the following from yesterday's Norfolk Virginian-Pilot:

"The home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh L. Butler was the scene of a pretty wedding yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Alice Virginia Butler, became the bride of Mr. William Cecil Cruser. The house was attractively decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers and the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Fred G. Davis, took place before an improvised altar of palms, ferns and cathedral candles. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a pretty gown of wisteria colored faille silk and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. Her maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Annie Brown, who wore a gown of pink silk over taffeta and her flowers were pink roses. Mr. Leroy S. Cruser was the bridegroom's best man.

"Immediately after the ceremony an informal reception was held and later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Cruser left for an extended Northern wedding trip."

MISS OLIVE CLARK IS THE BRIDE OF MR. JAMES A. WYCHE

Rosindale, N. C., June 2.—On Thursday morning, June 1, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Clark, one of the prettiest weddings of the season was solemnized.

To the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march beautifully played by Miss Elma Priest, the bride, Miss Olive McBryde Clark, entered from the library leaning on the arm of her maid of honor, Miss Fannie Vann, and was met at the improvised altar in the center of the sitting room by the groom, Mr. James Avery Wyche, and his best man, Mr. Wilbur P. Thompson. Rev. J. E. L. Winecoff, pastor of the bride, spoke the words that made them man and wife. The impressive ring ceremony was used. Mendelssohn's flower song was played during the ceremony.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a beautiful creation of real lace combined with Duchess satin, and carried a bride's bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. The maid of honor wore a dainty white lingerie dress with sash and her flowers were a corsage bouquet of pink and white sweet peas. The groom and best man wore conventional black dress suits.

Miss Clark, the accomplished and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Graham Clark, of Rosindale, has for a few years followed her chosen profession, teaching. Here and elsewhere she showed herself quite capable in the highest sense. She was principal of the Masonboro Sound high school last year and the people there were very sorry that she could not return for another year. Mr. Wyche is the second and youngest son of Mrs. Mary Wyche, of Hallsboro, and is one of the most prominent and influential business men of Columbus county.

The home was attractively decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. Mrs. E. N. Clark and Miss Zelphia Priest received at the door and ushered the guests into the dining room, where the many useful and handsome gifts had been placed.

Immediately after the ceremony pink and white cream and cake were served. Much fun was had when the bride's cake was cut. Miss Zilphia Priest got the money, Miss Myrtie Meshaw the thimble, Miss Addie Perry the bodkin and Miss Vann the ring.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyche left on the 6:18 train for a ten days' Northern trip. The bride wore a handsome dark blue traveling suit, with hat, gloves and slippers to match. After June 15 they will be at home at Hallsboro.

Those from a distance who attended the marriage were: Miss Addie Perry, Wilmington, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wyche, Mrs. John W. Hall, Mrs. W. E. Merritt, Mrs. J. D. Meares, Misses Dorothea Meares and Myrtle Thompson, Messrs. Wilbur P. Thompson, Earl Barefoot, Jesse Meares, Yates Powell and Mitchell Green, of Hallsboro; Mrs. J. A., Miss Maude and Messrs. Neal and John K. Clark, of Clarkton; Miss Kezzie Clark, of Charlotte; Miss Fannie E. Vann, of Clinton, and Mrs. D. H. Baldwin, of Whiteville.

MAJOR LITTLE IS CONFIDENT

New Hanover's Candidate for Congress Expects to be in Second Primary. Much Interest in Race.

Maj. Joseph W. Little, New Hanover's candidate for Congress in the Sixth district, expressed the greatest confidence last night that while without doubt a second primary would be necessary that he would be one of the two men in the second race. Interest in the congressional race is more pronounced than in any of the others but there are varying guesses as to the outcome. The friends of each candidate express confidence that their favorite will win. There is ample evidence to show that the sovereign people are holding their peace and will vote today as they see best.

In the State contests that of Capt. Haywood Clark for Secretaary of State naturally has much interest locally. Captain Clark has hundreds of warm and devoted friends in Wilmington, who would be delighted to see him win and who will do all possible to that end. At the same time they have the highest regard for Col. J. Bryan Grimes, the present incumbent, and for his other opponent, Mr. J. A. Hartness.

There is also much interest in the contest for commissioner of agriculture. Maj. A. J. McKinnon, of Maxton, who visits Wilmington on many occasions, is well and favorably known here and will poll a big vote. His friends here want him to win but recognize that he has worthy opponents in Maj. W. A. Graham, the present incumbent, and Mr. S. H. Hobbs, of Clinton.

The interest in the gubernatorial race while no less manifest than in the others has not occasioned so much talk locally. The other contests have somewhat overshadowed this one and there seems not to have been a determined effort on the part of either Attorney General Bickett or Lieut. Gov. E. L. Daughtridge to carry the county.

The interest in the contests for county offices occasioned much talk yesterday but there was little prognosticating as to the results. Each candidate and his friends were bending every effort yesterday to make safe every vote possible today.

CITY SCHOOL COMMITTEE HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

Superintendent Blair Submits Interesting Report to Committeemen.

The regular annual meeting of the city school committee was held yesterday at noon in the office of the Board Education at the county court house, and Superintendent J. J. Blair submitted his report; following which plans were discussed for the next school year. The meeting was presided over by Mr. J. Allan Taylor, chairman of the joint committee. Other committeemen who attended were: Messrs. W. E. Perdew, district No. 1; John D. Bellamy, Jr., chairman, district No. 2; George B. Eliott, district No. 2; R. C. Cantwell, Jr., chairman, district No. 5; John Thomas, district No. 5; George H. Heyer, chairman, district No. 4; N. M. McEachern, chairman, Williston industrial; F. H. Fechtig and D. L. Gore, Williston Industrial.

Superintendent Blair's report shows that the enrollment in the white schools of the city for the past month was 128 greater than that for corresponding period of last year; and that while 113 pupils were dropped last year and had to repeat the work of their grades, only 53 failed to keep up to the standards required this year, making a difference of 60.

The report contains the following interesting comparisons between the months of the two years:

"The average daily attendance for the Hemenway school was 78 more than for the corresponding month last yeär. For the High school, 15 more; for the Isaac Bear the same, although the enrollment was smaller; for the Cornelius Harnett, 14 more, and the William Hooper, 25 more, with a loss of only 9 at the Union, although the entire grade had been dispensed with here. During the month there were, last year, 113 children who were dropped, and this year 53, making a difference of 60. The percentage of attendance was this year, consequently, greater, and the total enrollment in the white schools above mentioned 128 more than last year.

Union school ended with	663
Hemenway school ended with	532
Wm. Hooper ended with	575
Isaac Bear ended with	231
Cornelius Harnett ended with	269
Total of	2,588

PROBABLE CAUSE NOT FOUND

Witnesses Called by State in Case Against "Red" Cumber Fail to Substantiate Charge of Murder.

Failure of the prosecution to produce any witness to substantiate the charge of murder brought against William, alias "Red" Cumber in connection with the death of his wife at the James Walker Memorial Hospital about a year ago, who was given a preliminary hearing before Justice George Harris yesterday, resulted in the dismissal of the case against the defendant for want of probable cause. He was arrested several days ago on a warrant sworn out by Detectrve A. A. Nelms, charging him with inflicting wounds which it was alleged resulted in the death of his wife later at the hospital.

The defendant was arraigned at 1 o'clock in the morning, at which time about ten witnesses called by the State were examined. However, they gave no competent or admissable evidence tending to bear out the charge brought that a whipping administered by the defendant to his wife had resulted in her death. The defendant was represented by L. Clayton Grant, Esq. Following the examination of these witnesses, Justice Harriss held the case open until 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

County Solicitor George Peschau appeared at the afternoon hearing and stated that while it was not usually the custom for the county solicitor to appear in a magistrate's court in view of the serious nature of the charge he wished to ascertain to what basis there was for the charge. He read over the testimony of the witnesses of the morning as taken down by Justice Harriss and questioned one or more additional witnesses. After carefully reviewing this testimony, the Solicitor stated that he saw no grounds for holding the defendant for Superior Court.

The Solicitor further stated that it was his recollection that at the time of Mrs. Cumber's death certain rumors reached the coroner, which caused the latter and himself to visit the hospital and investigate the charts and certificates which gave the cause of death as pneumonia. No evidence that death had been due to anything other than natural causes, he stated, was discovered and accordingly no inquest was held.

He further stated that a few days ago Detective Nelms and the coroner had called upon him, at which time Mr. Nelms had stated that he had two witnesses who were prepared to swear that the defendant had confessed to them that his wife had died of being mistreated by him, and that there was evidence of such mistreatment. At that time, the Solicitor stated, he had advised the coroner that it was too late for an inquest, but suggested that Mr. Nelms place what evidence he had before a magistrate in order that the matter might be investigated.

The Solicitor added that evidence given at the hearing before Justice Harriss, it appeared Mr. Nelms had been imposed upon by some of the witnesses, for there was certainly nothing in the evidence to show that death had been caused by anything other than natural causes.

Wrightsville Beach

Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Cox are spending some time at the Beach, guests at Mrs. Dunn's cottage.

The Seashore Hotel formally opened for the season Thursday. There are already a number of guests registered and the outlook for the season is an auspicious one.

Mayor Thos. H. Wright invites suggestions from the public as to how the flag day celebration to be held on June 14th at the Beach, in accordance with President Wilson's recent proclamation, can be made a great success. Mayor Wright requests that those interested write to him at once in order that he may be able to make use of the suggestions. It is planned to make the celebration at the Beach quite an elaborate affair.

The formal opening of Cooleemee cottage, which is conducted under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association, of Wilmington, took place yesterday afternoon from 4 to 10 o'clock. Several hundred called during the afternoon to meet the hostess, Mrs. Rose Harrison, of Jackson, Tenn., who arrived this week to take charge of the cottage. Miss Anna Troutt, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., assisted Mrs. Harrison in receiving the guests. Tea and wafers were served during the afternoon. As many as could be accommodated remained for supper. The Cooleemee club composed of young women, who are members of the Y. W. C. A., will make the cottage headquarters during the summer. There are quite a number of members of the club but it is hoped that other young women will join. The members are very enthusiastic over the success of the opening and are looking forward to a most enjoyable summer. Membership in the club costs only 50 cents and tickets may be had from the Y. W. C. A. or from the members.

CALOMEL WHEN BILIOUS? NO! STOP! MAKES YOU SICK AND SALIVATES

"Dodson's Liver Tone" Is Harmless To Clean Your Sluggish Liver and Bowels.

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with sour bile crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if your liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight on my guarantee.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick.

I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless; doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.

PROGNOSTICATORS AT SEA AS TO PRIMARY

Light Vote Today Predicted Even With Good Weather.

Much Apprehension in Raleigh as to Securing Primary Returns Tonight—Some Predictions as to Outcome Made.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., June 2.—With ideal weather conditions that are forecasted to continue through tomorrow, which is primary election day throughout the State, activities of the candidates are assuming a final spurt for the finish at the polls and the interest is intense in the races for the contested Democratic nominations. A very light vote is predicted under the most favorable circumstances as to weather, but the candidates for governor, secretary of state, attorney general and some of the other offices that are most closely contested have prepared for aggressive work at the polls and there may be some surprises as to the volume of the vote.

The prevailing opinion here seems to be that all the State officers who are standing for renomination will win out, the office most in doubt being that of secretary of state, and Colonel Grimes' opponents admit that he has a good fighting chance in the first primary and possibly a still better chance in the second primary. Some are expressing the situation as being that Colonel Grimes has his excellent official record for him and a well organized political machine against him.

Some are predicting a bigger vote for A. J. McKinnon for commissioner of agriculture than might ordinarily be expected for so short a campaign as he has waged, but probability of the nomination of Commissioner W. A. Graham in the first primary is most generally predicted; McKinnon is expected to be a close second in the contest.

A lead for J. S. Manning in the race for attorney general seems to be the prevailing expectation here but no nomination is expected in the first primary. The fact that there will be one western and three eastern candidates assures, it is thought, a lead for Edmund Jones in the first primary.

News Hard to Get.

There is much apprehension as to primary election returns, there being no party headquarters here where reports can be positively expected. Daughtridge headquarters and those State office candidates living in Raleigh are likely to receive telegrams on the outcome from pivotal points in the State at least and these may be the biggest dependance here for the primary laws. Indeed, the primary is such a completely unknown quantity that the best of the party leaders are at seat as to the outcome, many expressing the hope that this may be the last one for this State.

Only one Republican candidate for each State office having qualified, tomorrow's legalized primary, the first ever held in North Carolina, virtually will be a Democratic primary. Candidates for the National House of Representatives, a full list of State officers, county officers, in approximately sixty counties, and members of the Legislature will be nominated. Several candidates are seeking State office except those of lieutenant governor, auditor and superintendent of public instruction.

Chief interest is centered in the race between Lieutenant Governor E. L. Daughtridge and Attorney General T. W. Bickett, for the gubernatorial nomination and the contest in the second Congressional district where Representative Claude Kitchin is opposed for renomination by Clingman W. Mitchell.

In the Seventh District four candidates are seeking nomination to succeed Representative R. N. Page, who recently announced that because of his disagreement with some of the policies of the administration, he would not seek re-election. With the exception of Mr. Kitchin, Representative H. L. Godwin, of the Sixth district, is the only congressional candidate with opposition.

MR. NIMOCKS SPEAKS WITH CONFIDENCE OF THE OUTCOME

Fayetteville, N. C., June 2.—On the eve of the primary tomorrow, Mr. Q. K. Nimocks, candidate for Congress in the Sixth district, speaks with confidence of the outcome, in an interview here tonight, in which he says:

"I have made an active but modest campaign and believe that I shall win, even though a second primary may be necessary to decide it. I have no figures to give out. I will be strong in the counties of Robeson, Bladen and Brunswick, which have no candidates, and in my home county of Cumberland. I will also receive a good vote in Harnett, Columbus and New Hanover, though I have done little or no personal work in these, and none at all against the home candidates. The nearer the primary approaches the stronger my feeling becomes that I shall be a winner."

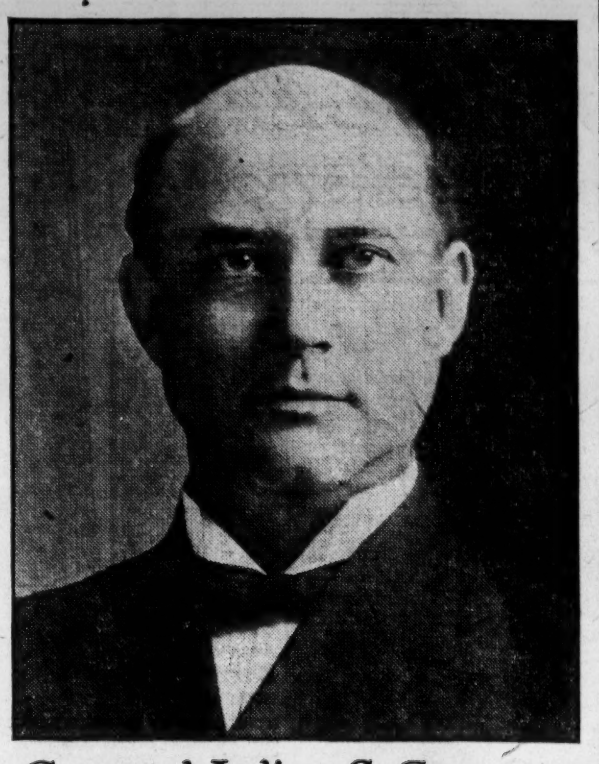
Boyd For Corporation Commissioner

Asheville, N. C., June 1.—D. L. Boyd, of Haywood county, candidate for Corporation Commissioner, is not testing the credulity of the Democratic votes in the State by claiming that he will carry every county, but he does declare that he will carry the State against his opponent, W. T. Lee, the incumbent, by a substantial majority, and that the voters may confidently expect the news of his nomination Sunday morning.

Mr. Boyd has left his candidacy against his fellow townsman, W. T. Lee, in the hands of his friends, while he has been making a tour of other portions of the State in his own behalf. How well that trust has been deserved is shown by the fact Mr. Lee has been compelled to leave his trip in other portions of the State and rush home in the hope of preventing a landslide in his home county for Mr. Boyd, as it is, Mr. Boyd's friends claim that he will carry his home county by a three to one vote.

Mr. Boyd is strong throughout the west, his outdoor active life making him a better qualified man than Mr. Lee for the position of Corporation Commissioner, and his active interest insures close attention to his duty if elected. (Advertisement.)



General Julian S. Carr Endorses Grimes for Secretary of State

To My Friends and Comrades:

Hon. J. Bryan Grimes is a candidate for the Democratic nomination as Secretary of State in the Primary on June 3rd.

As the son of a Confederate Veteran, and as one who has ever manifested an active interest in the personal welfare of Confederate Veterans and in the preservation of their glorious history, his candidacy is of especial interest to Confederate soldiers. I wish, therefore, to take this opportunity of urging my comrades, their sons, and all others who feel an interest in these old heroes of the sixties, to give their support to Colonel Grimes on June 3rd.

I have been intimately associated with Colonel Grimes for many years in numerous important matters affecting the general welfare of the State, of the Confederate soldiers, and of the State University, and, therefore, can speak with personal knowledge of his loyalty to all those interests, and of his faithful and effective services in their behalf.

He has been an excellent Secretary of State, making a record as a Democratic official to which his party in the coming campaign will point with pride; and I feel that if I can contribute in any way to his re-election, I shall be rendering a real service to my party and to my State.

Faithfully yours,

Durham, N. C., May 30, 1916. JULIAN S. CARR.

The Man Who Will Remember His Friends

FOR RECORDER

JOHN J. FURLONG

The many friends of Mr. Jno. J. Furlong respectfully present him to the voters of New Hanover County for the office of Recorder, trusting that he will receive a generous support at the approaching Primary Election.

In asking for the support of the voters of this county, we feel that we can safely refer to the record heretofore made by Mr. Furlong in this office. We are sure that should he be elected to this responsible position he will temper the justice of the law with mercy to offenders, and yet so administer the duties of the Court as to preserve the peace and dignity of the community, and afford full protection to all citizens.

President Wilson's Estimate of Mr. Godwin

Annapolis, Md., June 2nd, 1916.

"Hon. John C. Clifford, Dunn, N. C.

"Am glad to reply that Mr. Godwin has been a staunch supporter of the administration and has won the confidence of all of us.

"WOODROW WILSON."

The above telegram from President Wilson, was received by me today in response to my request for the President to give me his estimate of the value of Mr. Godwin's services and particularly as to the support given by Mr. Godwin to the administration in its policy for preparedness and in the delicate matters growing out of our foreign relations and just now while his opponents are vainly attempting to minimize the value of Mr. Godwin's public services I am glad to submit to the voters of his district President Wilson's unqualified endorsement.

Vote for A. J. McKinnon for Commissioner of Agriculture

Mr. McKinnon is not only a successful farmer but a pro- ssive business man, wide awake to the welfare of the great icultural interests, and has the ability to grasp the ques- ns involved in the development of improved methods of rming. Then he hails from old Robeson, the biggest and st progressive county in the State.

TO THE VOTERS

Besides that utility of the Recorder's Court, which is evident to all, there are, as a result of the proper operation of the Court, a great many advantages which will directly benefit the individual voter together with the entire public, and which might be overlooked by some who have not made a specific study of the matter.

Among those advantages are:

First—There should be a saving to the tax-payers, as a result of its minimizing both the criminal and civil work of our Superior Court.

Second—The administration of this Court should be in answer to and in harmony with that demand now being made by every citizen, and especially by the commercial world, that there shall be a more speedy conclusion of all matters litigated. Such a public demand is not only just, but is an absolute essential to our advanced commercialism. That system will result in a very considerable advantage to every one, in that it will increase the local circulation of money which otherwise remains tied up in law suits.

If elected Recorder, it will be my constant aim to see that these advantages to the public are completely and materially realized.

In conclusion, I wish to again thank my many friends, including those whom I have not yet had the pleasure of meeting, for their interest in my behalf, and for the assurance of their continued support and influence.

Respectfully yours,

J. FELTON HEAD,

Candidate for Recorder, New Hanover County.

GIBRALTAR, the Mined and Countermined

The Three Ports—Inner, Outer and Roadstead

The Town is Built Into Gibraltar Rock

The Capture of This Great Fortified Rock, the Key To England's Naval Power, Would Alter the History of the World Within 24 Hours.

Copyright, 1916, by The International Syndicate.

THERE are three main keys to the sea strength of the British Empire—Gibraltar, Suez and that narrow elbow of deep water, the Straits of Aden, where the Red Sea turns into the vast bosom of the Eastern ocean. Of these the main key is Gibraltar: Gibraltar the Rock, Gibraltar the mined, the countermined—the rock pitted full with great guns, that can shoot clear into Spanish territory in two directions.

The average man knows that Gibraltar is a great towering rock, set up alone and solitary in the Atlantic ocean, right where the continents of Europe and Africa almost come together. As a matter of cold fact, Gibraltar is connected with the Spanish mainland by a very good highroad and a broad strip of land that has been created into a so-called neutral strip of territory.

Gibraltar Rock on Side Leading to Spain

Gibraltar Not An Island

Gibraltar then is not an island, but a rocky point of land connected with Spain by a narrow neck of ground. Just at present there is buried under that narrow piece of ground, so says the secret rumor, enough gun cotton and other high explosives to throw the whole thing a thousand feet into the air.

Once the electric button would be pressed (sending an electric spark into all this ammunition), a small but intense earthquake would be evident. The waters of the blue Mediterranean would shoot into the smoking hole and make the Rock of Gibraltar really an island.

Few spots on earth can rival in compact interest at this time the real center of British sea-power. The capture of Gibraltar, say war experts, would alter the history of the world in 24 hours. But there is no danger of Gibraltar being captured, declare the British war experts, it would first be blown into small bits.

And (so says the inner gossip of those who ought to know) there are two electric keys to this volcano manufactured from gun cotton and other high explosives. One electric switchboard is hidden deep down under the living rock below the ocean bed. That other (and second key) is far above the smiling waters of the Mediterranean, secreted in an inner shell of stone and guarded night and day by a gray bearded non-commissioned officer and a stern faced young lieutenant.

Natives a Cheerful Lot

Yet nothing of all this can be read in the cheerful faces of the scantily clad, Gibraltan natives, that curious mixture of Spanish and Moorish blood, which makes up the native inhabitants of the rock.

No thought of danger can be seen in the jolly faces of the sturdy British sailors, enjoying brief stay ashore. They throng the crooked narrow main street of Gibraltar—all up-hill until it starts going straight up in the air. The little restaurants—mostly in the open air—shut up at ten o'clock and the average sailor roams the streets until midnight singing.

The sturdy little rock-policemen, with handy looking revolvers, swinging under their right hands, seldom do more than speak a quieting word. The revolvers are caught by a service strap to their right wrists. At midnight the rock-police shoo the sailormen into their lodging houses with no real trouble and little noise.

Tourists Not Wanted

However, shore leave at Gibraltar is very rare nowadays with every ablebodied man needed afloat. And as for tourists, well, in once hospitable Gibraltar, the tourist is an eyesore, and an affront. He comes ashore in a small boat and passes under the watchful eyes of many guards.

He must show his baggage and if he has the smallest known camera he must give it up to the military official, whose tiny wooden shed stands on the right of the stone gateway leading into the main street of Gibraltar. Also he must show his passport every time he is asked, which is often, in many cases.

Has Three Harbors

For a small place, Gibraltar is at least well supplied with harbors, there being no less than three. The inner one has wonderful water-gates that drop down at night and have great steel chains hanging to the bottom of the harbor, being a protection against submarines. However, only war vessels are allowed inside, which is not too pleasant a thought for passengers on liners anchored outside during the night.

In Gibraltar men say that all day and all night British submarines are crossing and recrossing the narrow space between Europe and Africa, watching for enemy submarines trying to get through from the Atlantic to the Mediterranean.

Gibraltar bristles with gun muzzles. The steel tubes glisten in the sun on many sides, and after the traveller has been passed by the watchful guards, he can climb near them on the outskirts of the town and admire them. Then he goes back into the town and men will tell him that he has not seen any of the real guns, but only the saluting batteries and a few minor guns not counted on for real warfare.

The real guns (men say, with a wave of the hand toward the towering Gibraltar cliffs) are sunk into the rocks, out of sight and that certain sections are pitted with tremendous guns, capable of shooting close to the shores of Africa, which can be seen clearly enough.

The second harbor of Gibraltar is just outside the inner basis. It is mostly used by small boats. The big outer roadstead is where the ocean liners anchor at about a mile from the landing dock, which is in the outer harbor.

Much Depends On Rain

So Gibraltar is impregnable as long as it rains every now and then; for curiously enough the one possibility forseen as dangerous to the rock fortress, is the fact that all drinking water comes from drainage of rain water off the highest part of the rocks. A wonderful system of vast caverns in the heart of the rock has been constructed, whereby the rainwater runs off parts of the upper rocks, which have been cemented smooth.

This water is conducted far down below the surface of the ground into immense rock caverns, where the water is cooled and preserved. Food and powder there is in plenty, but the water must come from rain, which is none too plentiful. It is said that sufficient water for the Gibraltar garrison is hidden inside the heart of the rocks to last the soldiers a whole year. Food for three years is likewise stored in the rockhewn depositories of the military authorities.

Aerial Railway on Cables

So much for Gibraltar, the key to the Mediterranean, under war conditions. The Gibraltar of more pleasant days is a delightful place to stop. Over its mighty rocks, there is climbing sufficient to test the nerves of any Alpine or Rocky Mountain enthusiast.

From the very center of the public park there runs a double steel cable reaching a thousand feet into the air, where the cable ties into enormous cement anchors. This is the aerial railway by which food is sent up to the artillery men, the signal watches and those other more secret guards that hover night and day around the most vital military features.

The cars swing dizzily from side to side and make the soldiers sea-sick, when the guards are changed. Only picked men are allowed up there at all: only the choicest of the chosen go in certain places. In one place, the watch is never changed, and there is no such thing as leave to be had. Curiously enough men are jealous of the honor of serving there; and, if he succeeds his comrades speak of him as of a superior order of human being, watching over the safety of ordinary humanity.

Prices Fixed By Authorities

Men never speak of a full "dinner-pail" in Gibraltar; yet every soul lives on the full "tin-can;" for canned goods (or "tinned" as the Britisher calls it) forms the important part of every dinner table. Prices are fixed by the military authorities, so that there are no "bargains" to be had in food-stuffs. But on the other hand neither do prices go way up out of sight, as would otherwise be the case.

Famous Prison Camp

The most vitally interesting spot on Gibraltar rock is of course the prisoners' camping ground. It's the one place most thought of and least talked about by wise people. The prisoners' camp is high up on top the great rock in a natural gully. In it are all sorts of manners of men. Some are known enemies, some are only suspected and a few, very few, are prisoners captured in open fighting.

There has never been known but one successful attempt to escape from this extraordinary place. Two prisoners with outside help obtained a long rope and climbed down sixty feet of the hundred feet reaching to a sloping bank, from whence escape to a boat would have been possible. The rope broke and the two men fell, both being fatally injured. They rolled down the cliff to the waiting boat, which rowed away with the two dying forms. Nothing would have been known, but for the rope found later and which the escaping men had intended to let down after them. An investigation showed the whole story.

The photographs show the principal features of the fortress, so far as military necessity will permit of. Roaming around with a smuggled camera might easily mean a sudden and violent death.

The clear cut features of the big rock, the Military-Governor's palace, the peaceful and beautiful park, the triple harbor of Gibraltar are featured in the photographs. The real meaning of Gibraltar can only be glimpsed from the beetling, grim cliffs, towering over the tiny town and throwing a commanding shadow over the narrow waters of the furthest west of the Mediterranean sea.

TRAILING—The Indians' Part in Preparedness

Apache Scouts One of the Most Valuable Assets of the U. S. Army -- Their Uncanny Skill In Tracking An Enemy -- Most Famous of Indian Warriors -- Hounds of Canyon and Desert.

BY WALDON FAWCETT.

UNCLE SAM has the world's best scouts working for him—"best" that is, if we contemplate the American continent as the scene of military operations. Critics there are who pick flaws in other sections of our military and naval establishments and who declare that the moves in behalf of "preparedness" have come none too soon.

Apache—that name of dreaded memory has attained a new significance since the Mexican campaign against Villa and his band was undertaken. Pershing's operations among the canyons and on the deserts of our neighbor republic have proven to the public what our army officers have long known, namely, that the bloodthirsty Apache warrior, turned scout in behalf of his former foeman, is one of the most valuable assets that the U. S. Army possesses. The very qualities of craftiness and cunning which will cause the Apaches to go down in history as the one unconquered Indian tribe serve the erstwhile savage in good stead when it comes to trailing, aided by only the faintest of clues.

When the American newspaper audience read at the breakfast table the other morning that a corps of Apache scouts had been rushed southward into Mexico on motor trucks, the item, to the average casual reader, perhaps suggested little. Possibly, at most, the word Apache called to mind something of the exploits of the storied Geronimo, most famous of renegade chieftains. But to every man who has a first-hand or even a second-hand acquaintance with the Apache that brief dispatch called up visions of the hounds of the desert—Indians not of imposing height, but of restless eye, Indians that do not conform in stature to the ideals of the story books, yet who, as Charles F. Lummis has said, have "the eye of the kite, the ear of the cat, the cunning of the fox and the tirelessness of the gray wolf."

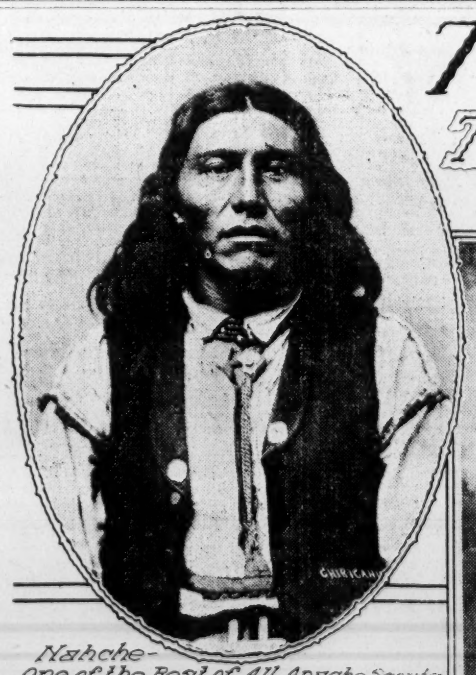
The Tirelessness of the Apache.

The tirelessness of the Apache is not a mere matter of Indian legend. U. S. Army officers had eloquent proof of it long years before the name of Villa was ever heard. The explanation is to be found, of course, in the physical training of the Apache. Born out of doors, this nomad of the Southwest literally spends his entire life in the open.

No small part of the credit for the Apache's almost unbelievable powers belong unquestionably to the land which is "home" to these children of mountain and desert. "No man's land" would seem, in the estimation of the white man, a phrase peculiarly appropriate to the ancestral stronghold of these "Bedouins of the New World" as they have been nicknamed. A more repellant region than it was in the heyday of the Apache tribes it would be difficult to imagine, but it was the world's rough hand as administered by nature in her severest mood that made for many of the traits that caused the Apache to be feared and dreaded for long fearsome years in a domain larger than all Europe, excepting Russia.

The Wilderness Whence Sprang the Apache

In order to have ability to appreciate what the twentieth century Apache scout is doing for the present-day American army it may be well to look for a moment at the environment whence sprang this superman of the trail. The average citizen knowing that the remnant of the Apaches now occupy three reservations in the Southwest has it in mind that the original realm of the tribe was embraced within the confines of the present States of Arizona and New Mexico. As a matter of fact, however, the great open-air school wherein the Apaches learned the science of scouting was of far vaster dimension. It extended, indeed, from a point midway in Texas to Southern California, and from Colorado on the north far into Old Mexico on the south. It is the familiarity with Mexico's mountain fastnesses acquired during the period when the Apaches were on the warpath that renders the older tribesmen so valuable as scouts to any American force operating in the turbulent land to the south of us.



Nahche—One of the Best of All Apache Scouts

Apache Scouts in Full Regalia (Chief Jesus and Chief Joshi

Chato—Apache Scout

A Glimpse of the "Apache Country"

A Natural Born Scout

His life, his training, his environment, and more than all else the form of warfare which the Apaches in the old days were forced to adopt, combine to make the average tribesman a natural born scout. Secretiveness is not the least essential of the attributes of the successful scout, and secretiveness has become instinctive with the Apache. The ability to melt into the brown earth and to merge with the gray rocks is his to a baffling degree. In the old days when the Apaches on the warpath gave our troops so much trouble it was the first principle of the Indian fighter to fight in what we have come to know as true Indian fashion, skulking from one shelter to another and never exposing the smallest portion of the body. Indeed, these Indian warriors had the present-day trench fighters beaten to a standstill in this branch of military science. This knack of capitalizing the shelter of every rock and tree has been translated into terms of modern trailing with rare efficiency.

On top of the secretiveness of the Apache is that marvelous perception of detail which makes for genius in trailing. On this score no white man, even though fortified by the experience of a lifetime in scouting, has ever proven the peer of the best Apache trailers. The latter are alike at home in following a scent over rocky hillsides and through mazes of sand and dust. Not only have the Apaches demonstrated an ability to detect footprints so faint that none of the white men of the average scouting party had been able to discover their presence, but they have piled miracle upon miracle by figuring how long a time had elapsed since such a faint print was made.

The Apache is emphatically an individualist which makes, of course, for the ideal scout. He needs no leader, he worries not over lack of counsel and advice, he suffers not from loss of companionship. Self-sufficient and self-reliant, keeping his own counsel, he plays a lone hand in a masterly manner. To surmise how inadvisable is the solitary Apache bent on sleuthing, it is but necessary to recall how invisible in the old days were the banded Apaches on the warpath. For instance, during the raid of Ulzana and his band in the autumn of 1885, the Apache warriors were on the rampage for seven weeks, during which time they killed thirty-eight persons. Yet during that entire time the troops and civilians that were constantly in pursuit never caught sight of so much as a single member of the raiding band.

Trailers, Tried and True

When the man on the street read a few weeks since that twenty Apaches after an unbroken ride of sixty miles from Fort Apache to Holbrook, Arizona, had executed a war dance and joined in the pursuit of Villa he may have wondered whether this was not a new idea—this employment of the bloodthirsty Apaches as scouts for the U. S. Army. As a matter of fact, however, the practice constitutes no novelty at all. The Apache has long since won his spurs as a U. S. Army scout even though the present-day citizen has forgotten or overlooked the fact.

Truth to tell, every one of the twenty Apaches who were hurried to Mexico when the advance of the U. S. Regulars was hampered by false information given by Mexicans, fought either with or against Geronimo in the famous campaign against the Indian bandit who made more history than any other one man of his race. Furthermore, it is a safe guess that none of the various U. S. Army campaigns against the Apaches would have proven successful and the renegades of the tribe would never have been brought to respect Uncle Sam's authority, had it not been for the aid rendered the U. S. troopers by friendly Apache scouts.

As will be noted from the accompanying pictures, the Apache scout in the service of the U. S. Army boasts a costume that may in some cases conform to conventional military standards, but is more often a strange mixture of regulation army raiment with remnants of the habiliments of the savage. A modern rifle is an invariable accompaniment of the scout's sartorial outfit. Long ago the Apache manifested a weakness for firearms of the finest quality. It was said in the days when the renegades were on the warpath in Arizona that the Apaches were better armed than their official pursuers, and that the redmen carried the best field glasses in the Southwest. That policy persists with the average Apache who in the role of a U. S. scout must stand ever ready to play the game single-handed with fate.

COTTON AGAIN IRREGULAR

Market Nervous With the Close Steady Net One Point Lower to Two Points Higher—Spot 12.65.

New York, June 2.—The cotton market was nervous and irregular again today, with the close steady, net one point lower to two points higher. After selling at 12.74 early, October declined to 12.65 rallied to 12.70 and broke to 12.62 in the late trading, closing at 12.68.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 4 points with active months selling about 4 to 7 points above last night's close or immediately after the call. Prices soon turned easier owing to the continued good weather in the South and July eased off from 12.63 to 12.52, while December declined from 12.88 to 12.80 with active months generally showing net losses of from 3 to 6 points during the middle of the morning. Offerings then seemed to taper off and July firmed up to 12.58 and December to 12.85 or to about or a shade over last night's closing figures. Demand failed to broaden on the rally and sentiment seemed to be disturbed by reports of a big naval battle in the North Sea as there was renewed liquidation and scattering local pressure under which prices made new low ground for the movement. July sold off to 12.50 and December to 12.78 or 5 to 8 points net lower. Buying by Liverpool houses and renewed covering caused final rallies of 6 to 8 points from the lowest.

WEEK'S REVIEW OF COTTON

Market Was Nervous and Unsettled, With Prices Making New Low Ground for the Movement.

New York, June 2.—The cotton market has been nervous and unsettled during the past week with prices making new low ground for the movement owing to the generally favorable character of weatner and crop advices. Fluctuations were quite irregular during the earlier part of the week. A considerable demand from trade and investment sources appeared to develop on each setback to about the 12 3-4c level for October contracts, and there were frequent rallies. Private reports, however, created an impression that crop prospects were fully up to the ten year average, while the continued good weather and the less optimistic view of immediate peace prospects also promoted increased offerings on the bulges.

The government's first crop report of the season published Thursday morning, made the condition 77.5 compared with 70.8 the ten year average and this was followed by rather a violent arlly of some 15 to 20 points from the lowest. But demand seemed to be chiefly in the way of covering by recent sellers and the failure of the comparatively low official condition to bring in fresh buying for long account, evidently added to the nervousness of the old long interest.

At any rate, prices soon weakened and the market today reached the lowest point touched since the advance of last month.

July contracts have been relatively weak, selling at 12.50 compared with 13.27, the high point of May 18, while December touched 12.78 compared with 13.53, the recent high level. The decline in July has been accompanied by rumors that holders of high grade cotton were moderate sellers here when July was selling even with October some days ago, with the intention of making deliveries on contract, should there be no improvement in the trade outlet. Liverpool has been a heavy buyers at times during the week, presumably to under traddles, but bull support has been less aggressive. Private crop reports have indicated an increase of from 8 to 12 per cent. in acreage, avering about 9.7. The government's acreage report will be issued on July 1.

SUDDEN UPHEAVAL IN STOCKS

Follows Early Period of Active Strength in the Market in Which New High Records Were Made.

New York, June 2.—The stock market experienced a sudden and somewhat severe upheaval today after an early period of active strength, in the course of which several important new high records were registered. Prior to the report of the German admialty regarding the North Sea battle, the list had disclosed gains of one to four points in rails, with a new maximum for Norfolk & Western at 133 and a nine point gain in "Big Four."

Specialties, particularly the automobile group and rubber issues identified with the motor industry, were higher by 2 to 5 points, with a gain of 19 points for Willys-Overland at the new high mark of 294. The movement in these stocks gathered much of its impulse from reports of a huge consolidation to be capitalized at not less than $200,000,000.

Chandler Motors, Gulf States Steel, and American Beet Sugar were elevated to the highest levels ever recorded with a new top price for Mercantile Marine preferred at 98 1-4. Former leaders of the munitions and equipment classes were comparatively heavy and the metal group reflected pressure.

The liquidating movement gathered force near the close. The exception was Willys-Overland which recovered all its loss and closed at its early high. Total sales 715,000 shares.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales of bonds, par value $4,725,000.

United States 3s declined 3-4 per cent. Registered 4s 1-4, coupon 4c 1-2 and Panama 3s 1 per cent. on call.

NEW ORLEANS REVIEW

Trading in Cotton Badly Affected by Holidays and Government Report.

New Orleans, June 2.—Trading in cotton on this market this week was badly broken up by the holidays and the government report on condition. The general tendency of prices was downward and the net change for the week was a loss on the active months of 22 points.

The main features of the week was the first government condition report of the season issued Thursday, which put the condition on May 25 at 77.5 per cent. of the normal, against expectation sin this market of just about 80. After a short-lived spurt of about 15 points, the market fell a little more than 30 points under heavy selling, much of it from bearish traders who had been waiting for a hard spot to sell on. On the short side of the market, the general claim was that weather conditions since May 25 had been favorable enough to offset the bullish import figures.

The weather of the week was called very favorable and led to much selling. Talk of large tenders of undesiderable grades against July contracts caused liquidation in that month, but the spot market itself was steady, making only a partial response to the to the decline in futures.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW

Steady, More Orderly and Large Volume of Business Being Done.

New York, June 2.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

"Feverish buying has subsided but in its place has come a steady, more orderly and yet very large volume of business and the virtual arrival of the between-seasons period sees trade as well fitted and uninterruptedly at a rate far above the seasonal normal. Neither the reduced domestic buying of steel nor the weakness in Southern pig iron, old materials and such metals as copper, smelter, lead, tin and antimony loom large in an otherwise strong situation.

"Optimism, though tempered by high prices, is not one whit less marked tha nit was at the height of the boom, the plain fact being that the country is sol dup, and therefore can afford to sit back for a breathing spell.

"Industry is working at an unwonted pace, diminished new buying of domestic steel is offset by foreign demand, the old story of labor commanding high wages is more applicable than ever and warm weather has improved retail trade as well as crop conditions.

"Weekly bank clearings, $3,958,412,000."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

Market Nervous and Fluctuated in Narrow Limits—Close Steady.

New Orleans, June 2.—The cotton market displayed no marked tendency either way today but fluctuations were nervous and in narrow limits. The main features of the sessions were bearish but the market derived support from covering prior to the double holidays. The close was steady two points higher to three points lower.

Around the opening there was a rise of 3 to 5 points in sympathy with a better Liverpool than due but weather conditions were considered against values. By the middle of the day the market fell to a net loss of 4 to 6 points.

In the early afternoon prices reacted to the highest levels on profit taking but a little later the market was sharply depressed by reports of a German naval victory. On this movement the trading months went five to eight points below yesterday's last quotations. Toward the close the market was again steadied by realizing from shorts.

Closing bid: July 12.47; October 12.50; December 12.62; January 12.73; March 12.86.

Spot cotton quiet, unchanged. Sales on the spot 420 bales; to arrive none. Middling 12.63.

COTTON SEED OIL MARKET.

New York, June 2.—Cotton seed oil was lower under scattered liquidation on the heaviness in hog products and grain, final prices showing net losses of from 9 to 13 points. Refiners and shorts were best buyers. Sales 17,600 barrels.

Market closed steady. Spot 10.80; June 10.78 to 10.90; July 10.79 to 10.81; August 10.80 to 10.82; September 10.79 to 10.80; October 9.99 to 10.00; November 9.21 to 9.22; December 9.06 to 9.07; January 9.09 to 9.10.

UNITED DEMOCRACY IN OLD DOMINION

Convention at Roanoke Names Delegates and Instructs Them for Woodrow Wilson.

PRESIDENT IS EULOGIZED

Carter Glass Elected a Member of National Committee and Rorer James Chairman of the Central Party Committee.

Roanoke, Va., June 2.—In a session marked by harmony throughout and with but one contest in the naming of electors, Virginia Democrats in convention here this afternoon and tonight elected Representative Carter Glass a member of the Democratic National Committee and Rorer A. James, of Danville, chairman of the central party committee. Both were named without opposition. Thirty-two delegates to the National convention and 12 National electors were named, the delegates being instructed for Woodrow Wilson.

Indorsement of the Wilson administration and support of the administration's preparedness programme are features of the platform which was unanimously adopted. A plea for party harmony and a eulogy of Woodrow Wilson featured a keynote address made by Judge R. T. W. Duke, of Charlottesville, temporary chairman. Harry R. Houston, of Hampton, speaker of the house of delegates, was elected permanent chairman.

The Delegates-at-Large.

The delegates-at-large are Senators Thomas S. Martin and Claude A. Swanson, Governor H. C. Stuart and Representative Hal D. Flood, of the Tenth district. Alternate delegates at large are Captain J. M. Harris, Blackstone; W. McDonald Lee, Irvington; H. C. Meeks, Clifton Forge and J. N. Brennaman, of Shenandoah. Electors at large are S. L. Kelly, Richmond, and E. Lee Trinkle, Wytheville.

The convention was opened shortly after 12 o'clock by State Chairman J. Taylor Ellyson, lieutenant governor of the state.

Chairman Ellyson turned the convention over to Judge R. T. W. Duke, of Charlottesville, temporary chairman. In a brief speech, in which he characterized Woodrow Wilson as the "greatest President in half a century," Mr. Ellyson said:

"We are here as a happy and united democracy and we are here because we have given the country the greatest President in more than fifty years. There is no division in Virginia as to the wisdom and greatness of the deeds of Woodrow Wilson. We are happy to be here and we will go out determined to give Woodrow Wilson the greatest majority any President has ever had in the past half century."

Judge Duke Eulogizes Wilson

Pleading for a united democracy and party harmony in the States, Judge Duke eulogized President Wilson saying "no man has ever met such a crisis with a braver heart nor a stronger front than has Mr. Wilson. He has led Democracy with unchanged front, an advocate of peace with honor, peace with glory, and stands for the principles of truth amid a warring hell. You are met today a united democracy. Let us remain so. Do not let us speak of factions or feuds. Let us remember that if there is a machine on one side there is bound to be a little machinery on the other; but let us march together, a band of brethren ,in the cause of Democracy. Not only is a Virginian at the head of the Nation, but a lot of superb Virginia gentlemen are grouped about him. Remember you have Carter Glass who stands a National figure, and who we are proud to honor as a staunch Democrat."

DELEGATES INCLUDE 40 FROM WILMINGTON

State Christian Endeavor Union in Annual Session.

President Mitchell Reports Nearly 60 New Societies Organized and Contributions Doubled in Year. Rev. Mr. Compher Heard.

(Special Star Telegram).

Charlotte, N. C., June 2.—The 18th annual convention of the North Carolina Christian Endeavor Union opened this afternoon in the First Presbyterian church. An unusually large number heard and were filled with the keynote of the convention as given by Rev. C. M. Compher, president of the Virginia Union. "Christ Enthroned" is the motto of this convention.

So far, about 40 delegates from Wilmington have registered. The reports of the Wilmington junior work shows that they are leaders in the State .Fifteen out of 23 experts are in Wilmington and all the reports are very encouraging.

The evening session was featured by the annual report of the president and an address by Rev. C. M. Compher.

President Mitchell reported great increase in the past year. He reported nearly 60 new societies added and contributions doubled during the year.

Rev. Mr. Compher spoke on the five reasons why Christian Endeavor appeals to all denominations . He spoke of Christian Endeavor as not denominational nor undenominational but supremely inter-denominational.

WILL "DARK HORSE" FINALLY BE NAMED?

we made the first advance in the interest of harmony, and we think it is up to the Republicans to make the next move," Mr. Perkins said. "Of course, we are for Roosevelt, and we think we have unanswerable arguments why he should be named by the Republicans. We are willing to confer with the Republicans on the question, and if they will not accept him and suggest another man we are willing to talk about it."

Mr. Perkins denied that he or the Progressive party's executive committee are paying the expense of the delegate to the Progressive national convention, and said enough boxes had already been sold to pay the rent of the hall.

Joseph B. Kealing, one of Fairbanks' managers, called on Mr. Perkins during the day, but both denied that they talked politics.

Senator Harding, of Ohio, temporary chairman of the Republican convention, may be the permanent chairman of the gathering, according to a plan discussed by party leaders today. Senators Sutherland, of Utah, is the only other mentioned for the place thus far.

Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, is said to be slated for chairman of the committee on resolutions, which will draft the party platform.

No Roosevelt Booster Signs.

George von L. Meyer, in charge of the Roosevelt Republican headquarters, issued a statement denying that any attempt will be made to use the Chicago preparedness parade tomorrow in the interest of Roosevelt. The statement reads in part:

"The electric flash signs which the committee has been using will display on Saturday evening only slogans urging preparedness and will contain no mention ofColonel Roosevelt's name. In carrying out this order Chairman Meyer is following instructions from Colonel Roosevelt."

GODWIN AND NIMOCKS FINISH CAMPAIGN IN FAYETTEVILLE

Addresses Made by Both in Different Parts of City Last Night.

(Special Star Telegram.)

Fayetteville, N. C., June 2.—Fayetteville tonight was the scene of a whirlwind finish to a hard fought campaign in the so-called bloody Sixth congressional district between Hannibal L. Godwin and Q. K. Nimocks, who is admitted here to be his strongest opponent. While Mr. Godwin's home is in Dunn, Harnett county, he made his final appeal to the voters of Cumberland, in the lower part of Fayetteville, while Mr. Nimocks' meeting was held in the court house.

Hon. S. B. McLean, the solicitor of the Ninth judicial district, was present and after repeated calls, addressed the meeting, stating that his home county of Robeson was going to give Mr. Nimocks a very large vote. Mr. Nimocks stated to the audience that he had invited Congressman Godwin to be present at the court house tonight and that the invitation not only carried with it a challenge to joint debate, but also the hospitality which he felt Cumberland county required of her sons to extend to the stranger within her gates.

During the course of his address, Mr. Nimocks, received a telegram from a Bladen citizen just from New Hanover county, reading: "Just arrived from New Hanover. Hold Cumberland and save the district," the reading of which telegram provoked loud and long applause.
